

The Cambridge University Press has indicated that its production schedule will be delayed by the current British power crisis. Its production staff is allowed to operate only three days per week and mails are running very slow because of a railroad strike. In fact the airmail letter in which IJMES was notified of this took three weeks to arrive in Los Angeles. Copies of IJMES therefore will be delayed until the crisis has passed. Cambridge University Press and the editor will do everything possible to get the Journal to you as soon as possible.

Call for Papers and Panels for the 1974 Annual Meeting

The 1974 annual meeting of the Association will be held in the Statler-Hilton Hotel in Boston, Massachusetts, from November 6 through 9, 1974. Ms. Barbro Ek of the Middle Eastern Center at Harvard University is handling the local arrangements.

The Program Committee consists of Professor Paul Ward English, Center for Middle Eastern Studies, University of Texas, Austin, Texas, 78712, coordinator, and James Bill, University of Texas, Irene Gendzier, Boston University, and William Hanaway, University of Pennsylvania, members. Professor Charles Adams of McGill University has agreed to serve as carryover member.

Those wishing to submit suggestions for papers or for entire panels or symposia, or make any other suggestions concerning the content or format of the annual meeting, should communicate with Professor English. Those wishing to organize a panel or a symposium should think in terms of organizing from 4 to 6 people, and collecting titles and abstracts from them for submission to the Program Coordinator. Those who wish to present a paper should submit a title and an abstract to the Program Coordinator. All this material should be in the hands of the Program Committee by April 1, 1974.

Suggestions for the Nominations Committee

The Nominations Committee charged with preparing the slates for the 1974 elections to MESA offices is chaired by Professor J.C. Hurewitz of Columbia University. The other members are Richard Antoun of SUNY-Binghamton, Farhad Kazemi of New York University and John Masson Smith of the University of California—Berkeley.

Suggestions for nominations can be made to the Chairman or to any other member of the Committee, which will meet in the early spring.

A new international association--The World Population Society-- was recently organized to encourage study of world population dynamics and its implications for the quality of life. The group will focus on the global aspects of population through an interdisciplinary approach. Dr. Cargille, the newly elected president, stated that the Society will foster research and will publish scholarly works on population problems, as well as sponsor regional and international meetings.

Among the Society's objectives are the stimulation of international cooperation toward solution of population and environmental problems, the establishment of an information analysis center, the encouragement of disciplines to consider their relevance to population dynamics and the support of the teaching of population science. The Society will also seek to promote recognition of population science as a discipline and to provide for public education and information.

Members will be solicited from numerous fields, including the social, biomedical, management and information sciences.

"Global Dialogue of the Disciplines on Population" was the theme of the first annual meeting held in Washington, D.C. February 7-9, 1974. The meeting included sessions on the following:

Population and World Human Needs
Influencing Population Trends
Is there an Optimum Population?
Urbanization: Positive and Negative Implications
What are the Feasible Transitions from Population Growth to Equilibrium?
Technological Progress and Cultural Values
Population and Sustainable Standards of Living: The World Budget of Proteins, Energy and Metals
Pollution -- A Possible Mode of Extinction?
Population, Politics and Social Justice

Information about membership and Society activities is available from Dr. Charles Cargille, The World Population Society, The American University, Washington, D.C. 20016. (301) 496-5310, (301) 496-5541, or (202) 686-2174.

Now available upon request are copies of Frank Joseph Shulman's recently published bibliography AMERICAN AND BRITISH DOCTORAL DISSERTATIONS ON ISRAEL AND PALESTINE IN MODERN TIMES. This work brings together for the first time 530 postwar dissertations dealing in whole or in part with the land of Israel since the early 1800's. As such it encompasses doctoral research dealing with such subjects as Palestine under the British mandate, the Zionist movement in Europe and the United States, the revival of Hebrew as a modern language, and the communal settlements known as kibbutzim and moshavim, as well as the growth of the State of Israel since 1948, various aspects of the Palestinian Arab language and culture, developments on the West Bank (Jordanian Palestine) before and after June 1967, and the continuing Arab-Israeli conflict. All disciplines of academic interest are included, and the theses are classified according to subject and are listed within each section chronologically by date of acceptance. An author index as well as complete information on the best means for acquiring copies of the dissertations themselves are provided. For free copies of this bibliography, please write directly to: Mrs. Bonnie M. Davis; Xerox University Microfilms, 300 North Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48106 (USA).
