CHURCH AND PARLIAMENT

The Reshaping of the Church of England, 1828-1860

Olive J. Brose

This is the first modern, objective study of the Church of England's struggle against disestablishment in the nineteenth century, a struggle that resulted in a Church-State relationship that has remained substantially the same up to the present day. Emphasis is placed upon the political context in which the reshaping of the Establishment took place, and on the roles of Sir Robert Peel and Bishop Blomfield as creators and shapers of the policy. The prolonged struggle over education strikingly illustrates the essential ambiguity of a national church in a society that was no longer church-centered.

SAINTS IN ARMS

Puritanism and Democracy
in Cromwell's Army

Leo F. Solt

The widely held view that sees in Puritanism the fountainhead of democratic thought is challenged in this investigation of the ideology of the chaplains in Cromwell's New Model Army. Examining the relationship of the chaplains' religious views to political concepts of freedom and authoritarian government, the author concludes that "authority took precedence over liberty, power over law, millenarianism over separatism, sainthood over equality, grace over covenant, and anarchy over elective polity." The eloquence of the Leveller ideas set forth around army campfires at Putney in 1647 has led to a tendency to regard them as characteristic of the whole Puritan movement. The author re-examines this contention in an effort to put the theme of Puritanism and democracy in a more proper historical perspective than has prevailed in the past.

Jacopo Sadoletto, 1477-1547

HUMANIST AND REFORMER

By RICHARD M. DOUGLAS. Poet and reformer, Sadoletto was a vital figure in the Italian Renaissance as well as in the Catholic Reform Movement. During a lifetime which paralleled that of Martin Luther's, he was directly involved in almost every major turn of papal policy from the St. Peter's Indulgence of 1515 to the convocation of the Council of Trent. As a Bishop and Cardinal his letters and his life story illuminate the turbulent years when the Reformation was growing strong. $5.00
