

Tractates and Sermons

Richard Hooker

The Folger Library Edition of the Works of Richard Hooker, Volume 5
W. Speed Hill, General Editor

Although Richard Hooker, sixteenth-century England's most provocative theologian, is known principally as the author of the Laws of Ecclesiastical Polity, in his lifetime, the Tractates and Sermons brought him greater notoriety. His views on justification, the perseverance of faith and the relationship of the Church of Rome to the reformed Church of England were extensively circulated. With this full-scale edition, the contemporary impact of these debates and the unique perspective they provide on late Elizabethan theology can be appreciated for the first time.

"Volumes worthy to stand next to the other great monuments of modern editing of English Renaissance literature." —Queen's Quarterly

Ways of Lying

Dissimulation, Persecution, and Conformity in Early Modern Europe
Perez Zagorin

The religious persecution and intellectual intolerance of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries compelled the resort to secrecy and deceit by many heterodox groups and thinkers. In this strikingly original book, Perez Zagorin traces the origin, theory and practice of these dissimulations and surveys chief sources of dissimulation doctrines in the Bible and in the works of such theologians as Jerome, Augustine, Erasmus, Luther, and Calvin.

"Zagorin's efforts to compare and contrast Catholic and Protestant styles of dissimulation and Nicodemism are important, casting a new perspective and focus on the religious and intellectual dissent of the era."

“From the time of Constantine’s conversion to that of Oliver Cromwell’s civil war,” writes Peter Iver Kaufman, “Christianity and politics were often so closely joined that it is difficult now to tell whether we are looking back at religious or political convictions.”

With the purpose of enriching our understanding of the often strained relationship between religion and politics, Kaufman explores major efforts throughout history to associate religious salvation with the perpetuation or reforms of various governments. His study begins with Paul’s perplexing words to the persecuted Christians in Rome: “Let every person be subject to the governing authorities for there is no authority except from God,” then examines how later Christians used various forms of “political theology” to merge the romance of conquest and empire with hopes for political and religious redemption.

Furta Sacra

Thefts of Relics in the Central Middle Ages

Patrick J. Geary

To obtain sacred relics, medieval monks plundered tombs, avaricious merchants raided churches, and relic-mongers scoured the Roman catacombs. In a revised edition of Furta Sacra, Patrick Geary considers the social and cultural context for these acts, asking how the relics were perceived and why the thefts met with the approval of medieval Christians.

“This is a fascinating study of a medieval way of thinking which in certain circumstances countenanced thefts of sacred relics from tombs, churches, and Roman catacombs. . . . Furta Sacra is truly impressive history shedding much light on a difficult dimension of popular Christian piety in another age.”—Michael Connors, Church History

CANE RIDGE

America's Pentecost

Paul K. Conkin

'Cane Ridge is mentioned far more often than it is understood. Thanks to this book, a richer understanding is now ours. We learn of the Scottish Presbyterian sacramental tradition, of the pervasive revivalism in America, of the climactic event in Kentucky, and finally of the far-reaching consequences for American religion as a whole.'

Slavery as Salvation

The Metaphor of Slavery in Pauline Christianity

Dale B. Martin

Paul and other early Christians frequently referred to themselves as slaves of Christ or of God—a metaphor most biblical scholars have felt would have been distasteful to potential converts in the Greco-Roman world. Dale B. Martin argues, however, that metaphorical slavery to a deity was not an unlikely construction for its day, and shows how the idea in fact represented salvation to Greco-Roman converts.

“[An] impressive piece of scholarship.”

—Wilhelm Wuellner $25.00

Paul the Convert

The Apostolate and Apostasy of Saul the Pharisee

Alan F. Segal

In this revisionist account of Paul's work, Alan Segal argues that Paul's life can be better understood by taking his Jewishness seriously, and that Jewish history can be illuminated greatly by examining Paul's writings.

“An important book that should attract a wide readership. Segal's interpretation of Paul's writings is revisionist, forceful, and deserves to be studied carefully.”—Wayne A. Meeks $29.95

PRIZES OF THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CHURCH HISTORY

The Frank S. and Elizabeth D. Brewer Prize

The Brewer Prize is a subsidy of $2000 to assist the author in publishing a booklength manuscript in church history. The winning manuscript shall be published in a manner acceptable to the Society. Manuscripts accepted for publication may be submitted for this award, but the winning manuscript must have printed on its title-page, "The Frank S. and Elizabeth D. Brewer Prize Essay of the American Society of Church History." If competing works are otherwise of equal quality, preference will be given to topics relating to the history of Congregationalism. Complete manuscripts in final form must be received by William B. Miller, Secretary, American Society of Church History, 328 Deland Avenue, Indialantic, FL 32903, by 1 November each year, with return postage included. The award will be announced at the spring meeting of the Society.

The Philip Schaff Prize

The Schaff Prize is an award in the amount of $1000 to be paid to the author of the best book originating in the North American scholarly community which presents original research in the history of Christianity or any period thereof. Books considered for the next award must have been published during the year 1988 or 1989. Any member of the Society may nominate titles for consideration for the Schaff Prize. Copies of books nominated do not have to be submitted. Titles nominated for consideration must be received by William B. Miller, Secretary, American Society of Church History, 328 Deland Avenue, Indialantic, FL 32903, by 1 March 1991. The prize will be announced at the annual meeting of the Society in December 1991.

The Sidney E. Mead Prize

The Mead Prize is an award in the amount of $250 for the author of the best unpublished essay in any field of church history written by a doctoral candidate or recent recipient whose manuscript stems directly from doctoral research. The manuscript will be published in Church History. Entries of no more than twenty-five double-spaced pages, including double-spaced endnotes, must be submitted to Stephen J. Stein, Chair, Committee on Research, American Society of Church History, 1420 E. Maxwell Lane, Bloomington, IN 47401, by 1 July each year. The prize will be announced at the annual meeting of the Society in December.

THE ALBERT C. OUTLER PRIZE IN ECUMENICAL CHURCH HISTORY

The Outler Prize was established to encourage the critical study of ecumenical church history, broadly conceived, and to facilitate the publication of such studies. "Ecumenical" is to be construed as chiefly concerned with the problems of Christian unity-and-disunity (doctrinal, cultural, institutional) in any period of church history; or with interactions between Christianity and other religious movements. Works of a partisan nature are excluded. The following categories are eligible:

- a. Studies, chiefly narrative and critical, of ecumenical church history dealing with historical controversies and divisions, or with notable instances of reconciliation and consensus.
- b. Analyses of church councils, dialogues, and debates, or interactions between Christianity and other religious traditions.
- c. Biographical studies of significant leaders, or of persons whose involvement in ecumenical dialogue and action was noteworthy.
- d. Critical editions (preferably annotated) of significant ecumenical documents.
- e. Bibliographical reviews and evaluations in major areas of ecumenical church history.
- f. Pioneering studies that advance scholarly knowledge and ecumenical understanding.

The prize consists of an award of $1000 to the author and a possible grant of up to $3000 for publication (or in exceptional cases, for necessary expenses in the preparation of a book-length manuscript accepted for publication). The prize will be awarded annually, though no award will be made in any year when none of the manuscripts is adjudged to be outstanding. Complete manuscripts in final form must be received by William B. Miller, Secretary, American Society of Church History, 328 Deland Avenue, Indialantic, FL 32903, by 1 June. The prize will be announced at the annual meeting of the Society in December.

THE JAME DEMPSEY DOUGLASS PRIZE

The Douglass Prize is an award in the amount of $250 for the author of the best unpublished essay on some aspect of the role of women in the history of Christianity. The manuscript will be published in Church History. Entries of no more than twenty-five double-spaced pages, including double-spaced endnotes, must be submitted to Stephen J. Stein, Chair, Committee on Research, American Society of Church History, 1420 E. Maxwell Lane, Bloomington, IN 47401, by 1 August each year, beginning in 1990. No award will be made in any year when none of the manuscripts is adjudged to be outstanding. The prize will be announced at the annual meeting of the Society in December.
