UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

THE MYSTERIE OF THE INCARNATION of the SON of GOD.

THE holy Prophet, in the Book of the [a] Proverbs, poseth all such as have not learned wisedome, nor known the knowledge of the holy, with this question? Who hath ascended up into heaven, or descended? who hath gathered the wind in his fists? who hath bound the waters in a garment? who hath established all the ends of the earth? What is his Name, and what is his SONS name, if thou canst tell? To help us herein, the SON Himselfe did tell us, when he was

Where if it be demanded, how these things can stand together? that the Son of man speaking upon earth, should yet at the same instant be in heaven? that the Father of Eternity should be born in time? and that the mighty God should become a Childe; which is the weakest state of Man himselfe? we must call to minde, that the first letter of this great Name, is WONDERFUL. When he appeared of old to Manoah, his name was Wonderfull, and he did wonderously, Judge 13. 18, 19. But that, and all the wonders that ever were, must give place to the great mystery of his Incarnation, and in respect thereof cease to be wonderfull. For of this work, that may be verified, which is spoken of those wonderfull judgements, that God brought

A thing so [f] wonderfull, that it was given for a signe unto unbeleevers 740. yeeres before it was accomplished; even a signe of God's own chusing, among all the wonders in the depth, or in the height above. Therefore the Lord himselfe shall give you a signe: Behold a Virgin shall conceive and beare a Son, and shall call his name Immanuel: Esai. 7. 14.

A notable wonder indeed, and great beyond all comparison, That the Son of God should be [t] made of a Woman: even made of that Woman which was [u] made by himselfe. That her Wombe then, and the [x] heavens now, should contain him, whom [y] the Heaven of Heavens cannot containe. Than he who had both Father and Mother, whose pedigree is upon record, even up unto Adam, who in the fulnesse of time was brought forth in Bethlehem, and when he had finished his course, was cut off out of the land of the living at Jerusalem;

The untying of this knot dependeth upon the right underſtanding of the wonderfull conjunction of the Divine and humane Nature in the unity of the Perſon of our Redeemer. For by reaſon of the ſtrictneſſe of this Perſonall union, whatſoever may be verified of either of thoſe Natures, the ſame may be truely ſpoken of the Whole Perſon; from whether ſoever of the Natures it be denominated. For the clearer conceiving whereof, we may call to minde that which the Apoſtle hath taught us touching our Saviour:[e] In him dwelleth all the fulneſſe of the Godhead bodily, that is to ſay, by ſuch a perſonall and reall union, as doth unſeparably & everlaſtingly conjoyn that infinite Godhead with his finite Manhood in the unity of the ſelfe-ſame individuall Perſon.

[e] Col. 2. 9.

He in whom that fulneſſe dwelleth, is the PERSON: that fulneſſe which ſo doth dwell in him, is the NATURE. Now there dwelleth in him not onely the fulneſſe of the Godhead, but the fulneſſe of the Manhood alſo. for we beleeve him to be both perfect God, begotten of the ſubſtance of his Father before all worlds; and perfect Man, made of the ſubſtance of his Mother in the fullneſſe of time. And therefore we muſt hold, that there are two diſtinct Natures in him: and two ſo diſtinct, that they doe not make one compounded nature; but ſtill remaine uncompounded and unconfounded together. But Hee in whom the fulneſſe of the Manhood dwelleth, is not one, and hee in whom the fulneſſe of the Godhead another: but he in whom the fulneſſe of both thoſe natures dwelleth, is one and the ſame Immanuel, and consequently it must be beleeved as firmly, that he is but one Person.

And here wee must consider, that the Divine Nature did not assume an humane Person, but the divine Person did assume an humane Nature: and that of the three Divine Persons, it was neither the first nor the third that did assume this Nature; but it was the middle Person, who was to bee the middle one, that must undertake this mediation betwixt God and us. which was otherwise also most requisite, aswell for the better preservation of the integrity of the blessed Trinity in the Godhead, as for the higher advancement of Mand-kinde by meanes of that relation which the second Person the Mediatour did beare unto his Father. For if the fulnesse of the Godhead should have thus dwelt in any humane person, there should then a fourth Person necessarily have been added unto the Godhead. And if any of the three Persons, beside the second, had been borne of a Woman; there should have been two Sonnes in the Trinity: whereas now the Sonne of God and the Sonne of the blessed Virgin, being ing but one Person, is consequently but one Sonne; and so no alteration at all made in the relations of the Persons of the Trinitie.

Againe, in respect of us, the Apostle sheweth, that for this very end [f] God sent his owne SON made of a woman; that WE might receive the Adoption of SONS: and thereupon maketh this inference. Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a SON; and if a SON, then an HEIRE of God through Christ: intimating thereby, that what relation Christ hath unto God by Nature, we being found in him have the same by Grace. By Nature hee is [g] The only begotten Sonne of the Father: but this is the high Grace he hath purchased for us; that [h] as many as received him, to them he gave power or priviledge, to become the Sonnes of God, even to them that beleeve on his Name. For although he reserve to himselfe the preeminence, which is due unto him in a * peculiar manner, of being [i] the first borne among many brethren: yet in him, and for him, the rest likewise by the grace of adoption are all of them accounted as first-bornes.

So God biddeth Moses to say unto Pharaoh; [k] Israel is my Sonne, even my first-borne. And I say vnto thee; Let my sonne goe, that he may serve me: and if thou refuse to let him goe; behold I will slay thy sonne, even thy first borne. And the whole Israell of God, consisting of Jew and Gentile, is in the same sort described by the Apostle to be [l] the generall assembly and Church of the first borne inrolled in Heaven. For the same reason that maketh them to be Sons, to wit, their incorporation into Christ, the selfe-same also maketh them to be first-bornes: so as (how ever it fall out by the grounds of our common Law) by the rule of the Gospell this consequence will still hold true; [m] If children, then heires, heires of God and joynt-heires with Christ. And so much for the SON, the Person assuming.

borne of a pure and immaculate Virgin, without the helpe of any man. And this also was most requisite, as for other respects, so for the exemption of the assumed nature from the imputation and pollution of Adams sinne.

y Rom. 5. 12. For y sinne having by that one man entred into the world; every Father becommeth an Adam unto his child, and conveyeth the corruption of his Nature unto all those whom hee doth beget. Therefore our Saviour assuming the substance of our Nature, but not by the ordinary way of naturall generation, is thereby freed from all the touch and taint of the corruption of our flesh; which by that meanes only is propagated from the first man unto his posterity. Whereupon, he being made of man, but not by man, and so becomming the immediate fruit of the *whom*e and not of the Loynes; must of necessity be thereby be made the Son of his [a] owne Spirit. [a] Gal. 4.6. Rom. 8.9. Because Fathers do beget their children out of their owne substance: the holy Ghost did not so, but framed the flesh of him, from whom himself proceeded, out of the creature of them both, [b] the hand-maid of the Lord; whom from thence all generations shall call blessed. [b] Luk. 1.38, 48.

That blessed wombe of hers was the bride-chamber, wherein the Holy Ghost did knit that indissoluble knot betwixt our humane nature and his Deity: the Son of God assuming into the unity of his Person that which before he was not; and yet without change (for so must God still be) remaining that which he was. Whereby it came to passe, that [c] this holy thing which was borne of her was indeed and in truth to be called the SONNE of GOD. Which wonderfull connexion of two so infinitely differing natures in the unity of one person, how it was there effected; is an inquisition fitter for an Angelical intelligence, than for our shallow capacity to look after. To which purpose also we may observe, that in the fabrick of the Arke of the Covenant, [d] the posture of the faces of the Cherubims toward [c] Luk. 1. 35. [d] Exod. 37 9.

* παρακύψαι, 1. Pet. 1. 12.

And therefore let that ſatisfaction, which the Angell gave unto the Mother Virgin (whom it did more ſpecially concerne to move the queſtion, [e] How may this be?) content us, [f] The power of the higheſt ſhall over-ſhadow thee. For as the former part of that ſpeech may informe us, that [g] with God nothing is unpoßible: ſo the latter may put us in minde, that the ſame God having over-ſhadowed this myſtery with his own veile, we ſhould not preſume with the men of [h] Bethſhemeſh to looke into this Arke of his; leaſt for our curioſity we be ſmitten, as they were. Only this we may ſafely ſay, and muſt firmly hold: that as the diſtinction of the Perſons in the holy Trinity hindreth not the Unity of the Nature of the God-head, although every perſon entirely holdeth his own incommunicable property; ſo neither doth the diſtinction of the two Natures in our Mediatour any way croſſe the unity of his Perſon, although each

And ſo having fulfilled all righteouſneſſe, whereunto the meaneſt man was tied, in the dayes of his pilgrimage (which was more than he needed to have undergone, if he had reſpected only himſelfe:) the workes which he performed were truly works of ſupererogation, which might be put upon the account of them whoſe debt he undertook to diſcharge; and being performed by the perſon of the Sonne of God, muſt in that reſpect not only be equivalent, but infinitely overvalue the obedience of Adam and all his poſterity, although they had remained in their integrity, & continued untill this houre inſtantly ſerving God day & night. penalty due for the default. And as the payment of the debt which commeth nomine pœnæ, dischargeth not the tenant afterwards from paying his yearly rent; which of it selfe would have been due, although no default had been committed: so the due payment of the yearly rent, after the default hath been made, is no sufficient satisfaction for the penalty already incurred. Therefore our surety, who standeth chargeable with all our debts, as he maketh paiment for the one by his Active, so must he make amends for the other by his Passive obedience: he must first[n] suffer, & thẽ enter into his glory.[o] For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the captain of their salvation perfect (that is, a perfect accomplisher of the work wch he had undertakẽ) through sufferings.

The Godhead is of that infinit perfection, that it cannot possibly be subject to any passion. He therefore that had no other nature but the Godhead, could not pay such a debt as this; the discharge whereof consisted in suffering and dying. It was also fit, that Gods justice should have bin satisfied in that nature which had transgressed ; and that the same nature should suffer the punishment, that had committed the offence. p For asmuch then as the children were partakers of flesh and blood, he also himselfe likewise tooke part of the same: that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the Devill; and deliver them who through feare of death were all their life time subject to bondage. Such and so great was the love of God the Father towards us, that q Hee spared not his owne Sonne, but delivered him up for us all: and so transcendent was the love of the Sonne of God, towards the sonnes of men, that he desired not to be spared; but rather than they should lye under the power of death, was of himselfe most willing to suffer death for them. which seeing in that infinite nature, which by eternall generation he received from his Father, he could not doe; he resolved in the appoynted time to take unto himselfe a Mother, and out of her substance to have a body framed unto himselfe, wherein he might r become obedient unto death, even the death of the crosse, for our redemption. And therefore s when he commeth into the world, he

Thus we see it was necessary for the satisfaction of this debt, that our Mediator should be Man: but he that had no more in him than a Man, could never be able to goe thorow with so great a worke. For if there should be found a Man as righteous as Adam was at his first creation, who would be content to suffer for the offence of others: his suffering possibly might serve for the redemption of one soule; it could be no sufficient ransome for those [u] innumerable multitudes that were to be [x] redeemed to GOD out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation. Neither could any Man or Angell be able to hold out, if a punishment equivalent to the endlesse sufferings of all the sinners in the world should at once be laid upon him. Yea the very powers of Christ himselfe, upon whom [y] the Spirit of might did rest, were so shaken in this sharp encounter; that he, who live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in mee: and the life which I now live in the flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved mee and gave himselfe for me. From all which we may easily gather, that if by the obedience and sufferings of a bare man, though never so perfect, the most soveraigne medicine that could be thought upon should have beene prepared for the curing of our wounds: yet all would be to no purpose, we being found dead, when the medicine did come to be applyed.

Our Physitian therefore must not only be able to restore us unto health, but unto life it selfe: which none can do but the Father, Son and holy Ghost; one God, blessed for ever. to which purpose, these passages of our Saviour also are to be considered. [h] As the father hath life in himselfe: so hath he given to the Son to have life in himselfe. [i] As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me. [k] I am the living bread, which came downe from heaven; if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give, is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world. the substance whereof is briefly

11 Cor.15.45. postle: [l] The last Adam was made a quickening spirit. An Adam therefore and perfect Man must he have been; that his flesh, given for us upon the Crosse, might be made the conduit to convey life unto the world: and a quickening spirit he could not have been, unlesse he were God, able to make that flesh an effectuall instrument of life by the operation of his blessed spirit. For, as himselfe hath declared, [m] It is the Spirit that quickeneth; without it, the flesh would profit nothing.

As for the poynt of similitude and likenesse: we reade of Adam, after his fall, that he [n] begat a son in his owne likenesse, after his image. and generally, as well touching the carnall as the spirituall generation, our Saviour hath taught us this lesson. [o] That which is borne of the flesh, is flesh; and that which is borne of the Spirit, is spirit. Whereupon the Apostle maketh this comparison betwixt those who are borne of that first man, who is of the earth earthy, and of the second man, who is the Lord from heaven. It may be, his burden being thus lightened, the abilities that were left him for government were not altogether ſo great, as the neceſsity of his former employment required them to have beene: and in that regard, what was given to his aſsiſtants, might perhaps be ſaid to be taken from him. But we are ſure the caſe was otherwiſe in him of whom now we ſpeake: unto whom [b] God did not thus give the ſpirit by meaſure. VVe are yet further to take it into our consideration, that by thus enliving and fashioning us according to his owne Image, Christs purpose was not to raise a seed unto himselfe dispersedly and distractedly, but to [f] gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad: yea and to [g] bring all unto one head by himselfe, both them which are in heaven and them which are on the earth. that as in the Tabernacle, [h] the vaile divided between the holy place and the most holy; but the curtains which covered them both were so coupled together with the taches, that it might still [i] be one Tabernacle: so the Church militant and triumphant

Now Moses, we know, had a singular preeminence above all the rest of the Prophets: according to that ample testimony which God himself giveth of him. [l] If there be a Prophet among you, I the Lord will make my self knowne unto him in a vision, and will speake unto him in a dream. My servant Moses is not so, who is faithfull in all mine house: with him will I speake mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark speeches, and the similitude of the Lord shall he behold. And therefore we finde, that our Mediatour in the execution of his Propheticall office is in a more peculiar manner likened unto Moses: which he himself also did thus foretell. [m] The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken. According to all that thou desiredst of the Lord thy God in Horeb, in the day of the assembly, saying, Let me not heare againe the voyce of the Lord my God; neither [l] Num. 12. 6, 7, 8. And it shall come to passe, that whosoever will not hearken unto my words, which he shall speak in my name, I will require it of him.

Our Prophet therefore must be a man raised from among his brethren the Israelites (n of whom, as concerning the flesh, he came) who was to performe unto us that which the fathers requested of Moses: o Speak thou to us, and we will hear; but let not God speak with us, lest we dye. And yet (that in this also we may see, how our Mediatour had the preeminence) p when Aaron and all the children of Israel were to receive from the mouth of Moses all that the Lord had spoken with him in mount Sinai, they were afraid to come nigh him, by reason of the glory of his shining countenance: so that he was faine to put a vaile over his face, while he spake unto them that which he was commanded. there shall be no end, upon the throne of David and upon his kingdome, to order it, and to establish it with judgement and with justice, from henceforth even for ever. and by Daniel: [y] Behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to the Ancient of daies; and they brought him near before him. And there was given him dominion and glory and a kingdome, that all people, nations, & languages should serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not passe away, and his kingdome that which shall not be destroyed. and by the angel Gabriel, in his ambassage to the blessed Virgin. [z] Behold thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a Son, and shalt call his name Iesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest: and the Lord God shall give him the throne of his father David. And he shall reigne over the house of Iacob for ever; and of his kingdome there shall be no end.
