NECROLOGY

EDNA LOUISE LUCAS, head of the Harvard Fine Arts Library until her retirement in 1964, died January 24, 1970, in Rockport, Massachusetts. Following her retirement Miss Lucas continued to be professionally active and completed her Art Books: A Basic Bibliography on the Fine Arts (1968).

RETIREMENTS

MRS. MARGARET B. ANDREWS, head of the department of rare books, manuscripts, and archives at the University of Rochester library, Rochester, New York, retired March 1, 1970. Mrs. Andrews joined the library as an assistant classifier in 1929 and held a number of positions in the library before her appointment in 1955 as head of the department of rare books, manuscripts, and archives.

MRS. MARY M. GILLHAM, university librarian, professor of library science, and chairman of the department of library science, has retired after forty-eight years of service to the University of Toledo.

FELIX REICHMANN, considered by many librarians to be one of the world's greatest bookmen, will retire June 30, 1970, as assistant director of libraries at Cornell University after twenty-three years of service to Cornell. He joined Cornell in 1947 as head of the library's acquisitions department and was named director in charge of technical services in 1948. Mr. Reichmann was responsible not only for the acquisition of several important collections for the university library, but also began and supervised Cornell's reclassification project. This project, begun in 1948, should be completed in two more years.

MRS. MARGARET K. TOTH retired as head of the department of acquisitions at the University of Rochester on April 1, 1970. Mrs. Toth joined the library staff in 1944 and held a number of positions in the library. She also served as editor of the American College and Research Libraries' Microcard Series from 1956 to 1967. ■■
