DWIGHT F. BURLINGAME has been named vice president for university relations at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio, effective July 1. He has been acting vice president for the past year.

Burlingame, who joined the Bowling Green staff in 1978 as dean of libraries and learning resources, will be responsible for alumni relations, development, public relations, the educational television station, and student publications.

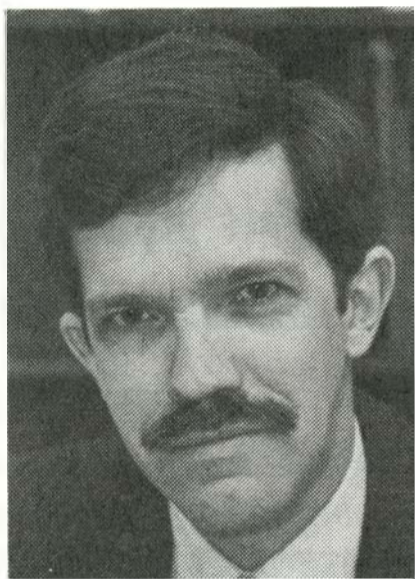

Prior to coming to Bowling Green, Burlingame was dean of the library and learning resources at the University of Evansville from 1974 to 1978. His professional library career also includes positions at St. Cloud State University and the University of Iowa. He has held visiting professorships in library science at the University of Michigan, Peabody College in Nashville, the University of Illinois, and Florida State University.

A 1965 graduate of Moorhead State University in Minnesota, Burlingame earned a master's degree from the University of Illinois in 1967 and his Ph.D. from Florida State University in 1974.

He is the author of a book entitled Fund Raising and the Academic Dean, soon to be published, and he has written numerous articles for professional journals. He is currently chair of the Choice Editorial Board.

DENNIS E. ROBISON, university librarian at the University of Richmond, has been appointed university librarian of the Carrier Library at James Madison University, Harrisonburg, Virginia.

Robison has been at Richmond since 1974 where he was responsible for Boatwright Library and two branch libraries. He was instrumental in the development of the Learning Resources Center, instituted an active bibliographic instruction program, and was responsible for substantially increasing the library's operating budget. Prior to coming to

Dwight F. Burlingame

Richmond, Robison was assistant director at the University of South Florida Library.

He has served as president of the Florida Library Association, chairman of the College and University Section of the Virginia Library Association, and has served on several ACRL committees. He served on the SOLINET Board of Directors and was a participant in the ARL/OMS Consultant Training Program in 1979.

Robison received his bachelor's degree in history (1960) and MLS (1962) from Florida State University, and a master's degree in social science education from the University of South Florida (1969).

RAJ MADAN has been appointed director of library services at the SUNY College at Brockport, effective July 11.

Madan joined the staff of Drake Memorial Library at the SUNY College at Brockport as chief bibliographer in 1965; she was promoted to head of acquisitions in 1969, and monitored the rapid growth of the library collection until December, 1981, when she was promoted to associate director of public services.

In 1981-82 she served as President of the Western New York/Ontario Chapter of ACRL; and since 1983 she has been a member of the SUNY Librarian's Legislative Committee. Within the Rochester Metropolitan area, she has been an active member of the RRRLC Acquisitions Committee and the RRRLC Committee on Continuing Education for Librarians. On campus she has served on the Faculty Senate Committee for Appointments, Promotions, and Tenure, and chaired its Committee on Nominations and Elections from 1978 to 1980.

Madan received her MLS from Rutgers University and holds a master's degree in sociology from the University of Missouri, as well as undergraduate degrees from Punjab University in India. She has published in professional journals and is the author of Colored Minorities in Great Britain: A

WILLIAM GRAY POTTER, assistant director of general services at the University of Illinois, Urbana, has been appointed associate university librarian for technical services at Arizona State University, effective August 15. Potter had earlier held various library positions with the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater.

His education includes a doctorate in library and information science, an MLS, and a master's in English from the University of Illinois. He received a bachelor's in English and philosophy from Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville. His articles have appeared in Illinois Libraries, Library Research, Library Resources and Technical Services, Library Trends, Online, and Serials Librarian.

Potter was editor of the Summer 1981 Library Trends which addressed bibliometrics, and is currently editor of LITA's journal, Information Technology and Libraries.

MAXINE H. RENEKER, assistant director for science and engineering libraries at Columbia University, has been appointed associate university librarian for public services at Arizona State University, effective August 19.

Reneker's experience includes the following positions at the University of Chicago: assistant reference librarian, classics librarian, assistant acquisitions librarian, and personnel librarian. She had earlier served at the University of Colorado, Boulder, as acting head of interlibrary loan and as personnel/business librarian.

Her professional activities include serving as chair of the ALA Herbert W. Putnam Honor Award Committee and the Committee on State Classified Library Personnel in Colorado. She has a chapter on performance appraisal in the 1981 book, Personnel Administration in Libraries. With assistance from a Council on Library Resources grant, she has conducted research on book thefts in academic libraries.

A graduate of Carleton College, Reneker received her MLS from the University of Chicago and is pursuing a doctorate in library science at Columbia University.

ROBERT WEDGEWORTH, executive director of the American Library Association, has been named dean of the Columbia University School of Library Service, effective September 1.

ALA's chief executive officer for the past 13 years, Wedgeworth will become the sixth dean of the nation's oldest and best-known library school. He succeeds Richard L. Darling, who has retired after 15 years as dean. R. Kathleen Molz, who served as acting dean during the 1984-85 academic year, will continue her research and teaching as Melvil Dewey Professor.

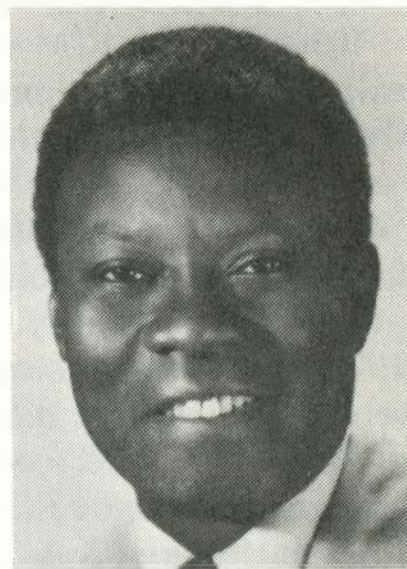

Wedgeworth takes over the helm of the school as it approaches the 100th anniversary of its founding in 1887 by Melvil Dewey, the American library pioneer, Columbia librarian and originator of the Dewey decimal system.

Wedgeworth received his bachelor's degree from Wabash College in 1959 and his MLS from the University of Illinois in Urbana in 1961. He did further graduate work at Washington University and at Rutgers, where he also taught courses on collection development and librarianship, first as lecturer and then as assistant professor. He left Rutgers in 1972 to assume the executive director's post at ALA.

Earlier, Wedgeworth held a number of library posts in Missouri. He served as cataloger with the Kansas City Public Library, as assistant and acting librarian at Park College in Parkville, and as librarian at Meramec Community College in Kirkwood. He was assistant chief order librarian at Brown University from 1966 to 1969.

His research activities include service on the U.S. National Commission for New Technological Uses of Copyrighted Works from 1975 to 1978 and on the Biomedical Library Review Committee of the National Library of Medicine from 1975 to 1979. He has delivered papers at professional meetings in this country and abroad and has lectured extensively on the new information technologies at schools and libraries across the nation. He currently serves on two national advisory committees for the Library of Congress, on the board of directors of the Public Service Satellite Consortium and on the board of trustees of the Newberry Library.

He is the recipient of four honorary doctoral degrees, and he originated and has edited the ALA Yearbook and the ALA World Encyclopedia of Library and Information Services.
