Improving the legal culture and legal activity of citizens in society has a positive effect on improving the reforms carried out in the country in the social, economic, political and cultural spheres, the processes of comprehensive accelerated and innovative development of society. Legal culture is a factor contributing to the social cohesion of citizens, social groups and civil society institutions, ensuring the stability of the "individual-society-state" system.

Therefore, in the current period of national recovery, increased attention is paid to issues of legal culture.

Researchers expressed various scientific opinions regarding the formation and development of legal culture.

Among the scientists of our country A. Saidov and U. Tadzhikhanov is an indicator of legal culture, reflecting the practical expression of actions related to the implementation of legal norms as a form of social culture. Legal culture is defined as a form of general culture of the individual, expressed in knowledge of all legal norms, tireless observance and successful implementation of them in life, respect for the rights and freedoms of other citizens and uncompromising behavior towards offenders.

Thus, legal culture is one of the most important aspects of a person's cultural appearance in society and determines his important role in public life. Legal culture reflects the characteristics of a person associated with the awareness of his social activity in the context of the existence of trends, values and ideas in society, the realization that he is an active part of society, full responsible participation in the work of society, the manifestation of patterns of creativity, initiative and dedication in this process embodies.

Under the "legal culture" H. Odilkariyev described the educational level of the legal system in society, the state of awareness of people about this legal system, respect for the law of citizens, the implementation of legal norms, intransigence towards those who do not comply with rights, the level of law-abiding. Thus, legal culture plays an important role in the formation of perfection in society, the spiritual and cultural level of people, their view of society.
