Welcome to the twelfth edition of the International Journal of Anglo-Indian Studies. In the first article, "Identifying Domiciled Europeans in Colonial India", Dorothy McMenamin discusses the Domiciled Europeans in India and contrasts them with the Anglo-Indians. In the second article, "I Call Australia Home", Stan Blackford discusses his experiences in moving from India to Australia just after the war. This article is an extract from an autobiography "One Hell of a Life" by Stan where he writes about his experiences in India. The third article is by Roger Arditti who interviews his grandmother and through her he tries to discover his Anglo-Indian heritage.
