1. Research Background

1.1. Policy Background

Learn from history and create the future. The Third Plenary Session of the 20th CPC Central Committee profoundly summarized the valuable experience of comprehensively deepening reform since the reform and opening up, especially in the new era, and put forward the principle of "six persistences"-persisting in the overall leadership of the party, persisting in taking the people as the center, persisting in keeping the integrity and innovation, persisting in taking system construction as the main line, persisting in comprehensively governing the country according to law, and persisting in the concept of system. The Communist Party of China has gone through a hundred years of ups and downs. According to the instructions of "good red resources, continuing the red bloodline, and striving to create new achievements that are worthy of history and the people", the CPC Central Committee has carried out and vigorously promoted the major strategic decision of party history learning and education. The Party Central Committee is based on Marxist theory and takes Xi Jinping's spirit of socialism with Chinese characteristics as the core. It focuses on the new starting point of the development of the party's cause and is committed to creating a new situation for the development of the times.

The red spirit is the revolutionary spirit and moral concept generated in the process of the leadership of the Communist Party of China. It is the spiritual crystallization formed by the party uniting all Chinese people in a hundred years of struggle. The red spirit is an important policy of the Communist Party of China for propaganda and education. Anhui Province is one of the important areas of the Chinese revolutionary base, with rich red resources and red sites.

1.2. Background of the Times

Learning the red spirit is a major learning topic for the 100th anniversary of the founding of the party. The red culture is the eternal bright background of the country and the party. It is the precious wealth that the party has created and accumulated over the past century under the inspiration of the spirit of the Chinese nation. Red culture is based on Marxist theory, adhering to the spirit of serving the people wholeheartedly, representing the lofty ideals and firm beliefs of the party. It is an advanced culture that seeks truth from facts and keeps pace with the times. The study of the red spirit is not only the inheritance of the party's spirit and party history culture, but also the inheritance and development of China's excellent traditional culture.

In the current social context, college students are facing the challenges of diversified information impact and diversified values. Whether from the international, domestic or contemporary background, it is necessary to strengthen young students' awareness and concept of party history. The Chinese people are still working hard to achieve the goal of national rejuvenation. Young students need to learn and inherit the red spirit to activate the vitality and hope of the country.

2. Research Significance

2.1. National Society

From the perspective of the country and society, it is our unshirkable responsibility as young people in the new era to learn the history of the Party, understand and comprehend the red culture. The country will prosper if the youth prosper, and the country will be strong if the youth are strong. With the development of the times, young people have taken on the responsibility of promoting national development. Learning the history of the Party can help young people in the new era to be full of motivation and enthusiasm in the important stage of social development in carrying forward the progress of the country, and inspire spiritual motivation for the development of China. Only by firmly remembering the sufferings of the ancestors can the future generations keep their original aspirations and sum up their experiences in the goal of creating a better life.

2.2. Significance of the Times

This survey is to deeply study the development process and contemporary significance of the Party and the Communist Youth League in the context of the new era, and explore the positive significance of the century-old youth movement in realizing the great rejuvenation of the country and its impact on the thinking mode and behavioral norms of contemporary college students. This social practice focuses on exploring the important significance of party history learning and education for the new era. Under the pace of continuous development, the youth group as an emerging force is the necessary energy for the continuous development of the times, and youth training is also an important strategy for national development.

Exploring the century-old journey is not only to remember the suffering and construction at the beginning, but also to guide the direction of the future development path of the Chinese nation. On the new journey, there are still many new obstacles waiting for us to cross, and new problems waiting to be overcome. In the new development environment, young people have firm beliefs, adhere to goals, create value, work hard, and work hard. They have always been persevering and struggling, constantly tempering themselves in the tide of the times and growing strong.

2.3. Practical Significance

Carrying out red practice activities is conducive to young students going out of campus and learning the red spirit more deeply, so that young people can have a more comprehensive understanding of the unforgettable revolutionary journey and understand their mission and responsibility. The deeds and spirit of heroes and martyrs will always be a powerful driving force to inspire courageous progress. Only when young people link their personal future with the fate of the country and the nation can they truly achieve long-term development in their personal future and realize the value of life. As a new generation of young people, we must inherit and carry forward the red spirit, and history will be eternal because it is remembered.

Since the launch of party history education, the general public and party members, college students and other recipients of the latest knowledge and information are the most direct educated groups. In addition to further understanding the party history on the original basis, they have also cultivated the historical vision and historical thinking of this group of people and improved their ideological perception. Using the long-term social influence of the youth group is conducive to helping the grassroots branches to carry out party history education and learning, and provide strong support and guarantee for them to persist, strengthen guidance and publicity, and quickly set off and carry out a learning boom.

The exploration of the red spirit requires personal practice, and its practical significance is reflected in two aspects:

First, in the micro aspect, starting from the youth themselves. Learning the red spirit of the tenacious struggle and courageous struggle of the Chinese Communist Party members and the Chinese people in difficult circumstances, young people can feel the independence of the country, the unity of the people and the firmness of their beliefs, which can inspire young people's national consciousness and pride, historical responsibility and mission. Second, in the macro aspect, starting from the social country. Society needs development and reform. Young people learn the historical process and spiritual power of the party and can make progress and development down-to-earth.

3. Regional Situation

Through the team's consultation and decision, Hefei and Bengbu, Anhui Province, were selected as the research sites for social practice activities. By searching for information online, the Anhui Provincial Museum (new and old museums) in Hefei, Bengbu Museum, Bengbu Urban and Rural Planning Exhibition Hall and Bengbu Science and Technology Museum were selected.

3.1. Exhibition Hall Introduction

The exhibits in the Bengbu Museum have a long history and are of great historical significance. They mainly display the ancient history of Bengbu, the development history of modern cities, and the history and culture of the Huaihe River region. These exhibits are of great significance for the study of party history. The Party History Process Exhibition Hall displays a large number of historical documents and materials, as well as many exhibits on the party history process, including early party historical documents, leaders' manuscripts and photos, etc. Activating the collection of red archives in the party history study and education can provide support for tracing and investigating the source channels of some important information in the party history. The members conducted in-depth research on the historical significance of the exhibits and the background of the time, and fully understood the preliminary work done by the Chinese Communists in Bengbu City to achieve victory in the War of Liberation, as well as the achievements in promoting national development and social progress after the founding of the People's Republic of China. They also visited exhibits and photos about the historical process of the Communist Party of China and communicated with the museum staff.

The Anhui Provincial Party Committee and the Provincial Government have foresightedly renovated the old Anhui Provincial Museum, preserving the old museum's contemporary style. The new museum was built to cater to the development of the new era. The collection of cultural relics includes bronze, jade, currency, calligraphy and painting, folk customs, brick carvings and stone carvings, revolutionary relics and relics from the socialist construction period, as well as relics and old objects that record our party's predecessors. The ancient relics of the previous dynasty show people the cultural heritage of history, and the relics of today reproduce the historical glory of the party. Bengbu City Museum, Bengbu City Urban and Rural Planning Exhibition Hall, and Bengbu Science and Technology Museum represent Bengbu's past, present, and future respectively. The gray color of the old days, the sudden enlightenment of today, and the bright future are the results of continuous efforts under the guidance of the party. It also records the development process of the party, from the grass on the prairie at the beginning of its birth to the lush mountains and green forests.

3.2. Development of Bengbu

In recent years, the Bengbu Municipal Committee of the Communist Party of China has not forgotten its original aspirations and served the people. It has led the vast number of party members, cadres and the masses in the city to forge ahead bravely, strive to innovate, vigorously implement strategies such as industrial city strengthening, innovation-driven, and urban-rural coordination, and strive to create and build the Huaihe River Basin and northern Anhui. The Youth League organizations at all levels in Bengbu City closely focus on the central work of the party and government in the city, fully perform the various functions of the League, and unite and lead the vast number of youth league members in the city to make positive contributions to the economic and social development of Bengbu City.

In terms of cultural promotion, according to the instructions of the report of the 19th National Congress of the Communist Party of China, we "must adhere to the path of socialist cultural development with Chinese characteristics". Culture is the core of the city's comprehensive competitiveness and a strong soft power. Bengbu has rich red cultural resources. The Municipal Party Committee and the Communist Youth League strongly support the promotion and development of red culture, use red culture to strengthen patriotic education for party members and the masses, and promote the good development of Bengbu's spiritual and cultural construction.

In terms of economic development, Bengbu is located in northern Anhui and is famous for its developed railway transportation. It is a "city pulled by trains". The 2021 International New Materials Industry Conference was held in Bengbu. In the past two years, Bengbu's industrial output has produced some original innovative results, and industrial development has also shown good development. While pursuing steady industrial development, Bengbu is also ensuring employment, keeping prices stable, the three industries developing in a coordinated manner, significantly improving investment quality, continuously optimizing consumption structure, and making urban and rural development more coordinated.

4. Practical Results

4.1. Red Spirit in Anhui

Anhui, as a famous historical and cultural province in China, has rich manifestations of the red spirit.

Anhui is one of the cradles of the Chinese revolution. The Long March of the Red Fourth Front Army was once launched in Anhui. Great revolutionaries such as Mao Zedong and Zhu De also held military committee meetings in Nanling, Anhui. These are all historical relics of the red spirit. Secondly, Anhui has a strong revolutionary tradition. Many elements of revolutionary spirit are integrated into Anhui's local culture. People remember the heroic deeds of Anhui compatriots in the War of Liberation and the War of Resistance Against Japan, and the story of the Red Army's Long March is widely circulated. The persistence and promotion of this tradition has enabled the red spirit to be passed down from generation to generation in Anhui. In addition, Anhui has many red tourist attractions, such as the Tangkou Red Army Long March Central Memorial Hall and the Huainan Coal Mine Workers Uprising Memorial Hall. Red attractions show people the red history through displays and exhibitions, inspiring people to admire and inherit the red spirit. Using red tourism resources as a carrier can promote the widespread dissemination and popularization of party history propaganda and education policies at the grassroots level, so that party history learning is no longer limited to books and ideological and political classes, but through field experience, learners can more comprehensively experience the spirit and values of party history. Schools organize students to visit red revolutionary memorial sites, hold red-themed lectures and exhibitions, and cultivate young people's understanding and recognition of the red spirit. The implementation of such educational activities is conducive to promoting the red spirit and allowing more people to understand and inherit the red spirit.

As an important carrier of the red spirit, Anhui has a rich red history and tradition. It has also widely inherited and promoted the red spirit through scenic spot construction and educational activities. The embodiment of this red spirit is not only the respect and commemoration of revolutionary martyrs, but also the recognition and adherence to the great cause under the leadership of the Communist Party of China.

(1) The current situation of party history education in Anhui

Anhui Province is an important part of China's economic development. In recent years, Anhui Province has continuously strengthened its own construction and improved ideological education in the province. It has fully played its leading role in deepening reform as an economic powerhouse across the country, made indispensable efforts for my country's economic development, and also made important contributions to the country's economic and social development achievements. In Anhui Province, the Communist Party of China has always adhered to the concept of taking the overall situation into consideration, flexibly responded to the complex and changing situation to coordinate all parties, consolidated the core leadership position, closely united the people, and gathered consensus from the whole society. The series of decisions made by the central government have been implemented in local deployments, and the development of the economy and society has been promoted with a positive attitude and service consciousness.

The Anhui Provincial Party Committee has kept in mind the teachings of the Party, always adhered to the people-centered service concept, made every effort to improve the living standards of the people and listed it as a work priority, and led the people to accelerate the pace of healthy economic development in the province. As the provincial capital, the whole city of Hefei is committed to telling red stories well, inheriting the red genes, constantly exploring various party history education models, and carrying out various forms of online and offline related activities to inspire the new generation of red forces to forge ahead. Anhui attaches particular importance to the education of party history for young people, and holds the "Telling Good Stories of Hundred-Year Party History" party history storytelling competition, focusing on the edification of red thoughts among young people, making full use of emerging media to widely spread red culture and patriotic and party-respecting ideological education, and using interesting storytelling methods to increase young people's interest in learning, so that they can feel the difficulty of creating the party's glorious cause in their love for party history, and at the same time show the thoughts and style of young people in Anhui in the new era, and deepen the feelings of young people in the new era.

The Communist Party of China focuses on major tasks such as deepening reform, promoting economic and social development, and improving people's living standards in Anhui Province. At the same time, it further improves governance capabilities and governance levels, and promotes the improvement of Anhui Province's comprehensive strength in many aspects and develops to a higher level. It is necessary to combine party history learning and education with doing a good job in the central work, promote the normalization and long-term effectiveness of party history learning and education, and continuously transform the results of party history learning into a powerful driving force for doing things and starting businesses. Since the launch of the Party history learning and education, various places in Anhui Province have successively launched relevant actions that are in line with local conditions, actively creating a better social environment and living conditions for the people, responding to the national poverty alleviation policy, sustainably helping low-income families and developing them into regular services, and actively taking measures to facilitate enterprises to carry out a series of "nanny-style" services. Starting from the actual situation, relevant institutions and organizations help the results of the Party history learning and education to be externalized and put into practice, from theoretical knowledge to actual practice.

(2) The results of red education

Red spiritual education refers to an educational method that strengthens people's moral cultivation and improves their ideological level, cultural accomplishment and quality from a spiritual level by learning and inheriting red culture and promoting the core socialist values through cultural communication. Red spiritual education has achieved remarkable results in my country.

The popularization and promotion of red spiritual education among young people has made important progress. Schools, communities, families and other educational entities have strengthened the publicity and education of red spiritual education, and more and more young people understand and accept the influence of red culture. When implementing the Party history learning and education, all colleges and universities should truly make the content of Party history "live" and make learning interest "high".

The influence of red spirit education in all walks of life is gradually expanding. The government, media, social organizations, etc. actively carry out red spirit education activities, and through holding commemorative activities, publishing red cultural reading materials, and producing red-themed film and television works, they have a positive effect on society, which is conducive to the promotion and guidance of correct values and world outlook in society. The concept of red spirit education can be effectively spread among the masses and deeply rooted in the hearts of the people, and further become a social consensus, laying the foundation for the wider promotion of socialist core values.

Red spirit education has achieved positive results in cultivating outstanding talents. Through red spirit education, people have a deep understanding of the glorious course and great achievements of the Communist Party of China, and have strengthened their faith and loyalty to the party. This belief and loyalty inspires people's spirit of struggle and responsibility, and cultivates a group of outstanding talents who have a country in mind and hold high the red flag.

4.2. Contemporary Youth Action is Imminent

"Learning history and practicing" is the foothold of party history learning and education. We must persist in externalizing the results of learning history to enlighten morality, learning history to increase faith, and learning history to respect morality into practical actions. Over the past century, China has ushered in glory through the hard work of countless Chinese people. The Communist Party of China has not forgotten its original intention in the passage of time, and it continues to move forward and fulfill its mission down-to-earth. "(1) With ideals as sails, we are not afraid of long voyages. The young generation is a generation that realizes dreams. For any country, the youth group is always full of vitality and is a major driving force for development. The Party and the state attach great importance to the youth, care about their growth, trust their actions, and always adhere to the view that the youth can become a fresh force, believing that they will make great contributions to the construction of the country. Only when the young generation understands the hardships and difficulties of the past and the many difficulties and obstacles in the future can they strengthen their ideals and beliefs. When young people study the history of the Party, they should not only understand the history of the Party and feel the glorious history of the Party, but also absorb knowledge, take action, and realize their own value. Once the power of the youth is awakened, it will quickly form a struggle and cultivate the struggle concept of Chinese youth, providing a vivid and rich practical footnote for "Why do young people struggle?"

The red power inspires people to strengthen their beliefs and values. The source of the red power is the revolutionary spirit and fighting spirit of the Communist Party of China. This belief and value has distinct characteristics, such as serving the people, self-improvement, loyalty and dedication. These values have been highlighted and reflected in the historical process of the Chinese revolution, and have become the driving force to lead and inspire people to pursue common ideals. The red power inspires people to strengthen their beliefs and believe that their struggle can change reality and achieve personal and social development. It inspires people to be determined and move forward courageously. In the course of the revolutionary struggle led by the Communist Party of China, many heroes and heroic deeds have emerged. They have interpreted the profound connotation of the red power with their persistence and sacrifice. For the sake of ideals and beliefs, they have not been afraid of hardships and have forged ahead bravely, and have written a glorious chapter of history with their lives and blood and sweat. Chapter.

Learn history to increase confidence, learn the history of the Party, listen to the Party's stories, understand the various achievements created by the Party in difficult environments, enhance the self-confidence of young people, strengthen the belief in Marxism, strengthen the confidence in the path, theory, system, and culture, unswervingly follow the Party, enhance national cohesion, strengthen one's own ideals and beliefs, dare to think and act, and constantly strive to realize one's own ideals and accumulate strength for the realization of the Chinese dream of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation. Learn history and respect morality, appreciate the achievements of the ancestors, learn from the predecessors' innovative spirit of daring to be the first in the world, the positive and optimistic spirit, the spirit of struggle to face difficulties, the spirit of dedication to the country, etc. The spirit of the predecessors is shining, learn from the spirit of the predecessors, cultivate their own morality, improve their comprehensive personal quality, constantly improve their own abilities, and create a good social atmosphere. Learn history Practice is the foothold of party history education. Understand the truth, strengthen confidence, cultivate morality, and integrate knowledge and action. Learn party history, connect with reality, do practical things down to earth, and work tirelessly for the future development of the motherland, do not waste time, do not complain, face difficulties, face difficulties, do not be defeated by setbacks, and do not decline in the trough. Take on the responsibilities of the times, strengthen ideals and beliefs, cultivate innovation capabilities, devote themselves to the cause of building the motherland, work hard, and keep pace with the times.

In the process of development, young people in the new era should keep up with the development of the country, strengthen their belief in Marxism and socialism with Chinese characteristics, and let their youth shine. Marxist theory requires our practical practice and implementation. Young people in the new era should fully tell the historical development story of Marxism in line with China's specific national conditions. Contemporary youth should be firm Marxists. They should not only insist on truly learning, truly understanding and truly learning to apply, but also be good at telling and spreading the story of Sinicized Marxism. Sinicized Marxism is the essence of our era, the best proof of our practice, and our ideological guide to promote progress and development towards a better country. This is the latest achievement of Marxism in China, which needs to be adhered to and improved.

(2) Use struggle as shoes and keep your feet on the ground

The new era of socialism with Chinese characteristics is a great era in which young people have great potential and will surely make great achievements. Young people should be more courageous to shoulder the responsibilities of the times, take over the torch of inheritance from their predecessors, and let more people know and remember the red history. At this stage, it is imperative to strengthen youth education, let red education enter the classroom, make it the core content throughout the entire education process, and focus on the ideological guidance of the revolutionary spirit.

Supporting the army and loving the party, and firmly believing in communism are the basic concepts that every young person should have through education. Resisting the erosion of decadent ideas, abandoning the interference of feudal superstition, advocating science, and firmly supporting the party's line and policy are the education that should run through the souls of young people. Strengthening discipline will make the revolution a success. Similarly, emphasizing discipline in learning can also help young people learn and achieve success. With rules, young people in the new era should strengthen their self-discipline, pay attention to self-restraint and management, overcome themselves, and create new glory in the new era. In this increasingly competitive society, even if there are thousands of difficulties and obstacles, we must persist in the life attitude of hard work, daring to fight and fight, regard pressure as motivation, forge ahead bravely in the harsh competitive environment, and have the heroic spirit of "seizing the day".

Contemporary youth should face failure and difficulties rationally, learn to cope with adversity, give full play to their subjective initiative and have the courage to try when facing challenges. Cultivating the collective concept of unity among young people is also one of the important goals of inheriting the red spirit. Starting from uniting young people, we will unite the entire social family in the future and contribute to the development of the motherland and the progress of society.

Encourage red literary and artistic creation: Organize red-themed literary and artistic creation competitions to encourage young people to create red-themed literature, music, dance, drama and other works with innovation as the main idea. Organize red literary and artistic performances and exhibitions to allow the masses to further inherit and carry forward the red revolutionary spirit by appreciating and participating in red literary and artistic works.

Education to carry forward the red spirit: Set up relevant courses or activities to spread the red revolutionary spirit and enhance students' learning and understanding of the red revolution. At the same time, use news media, online platforms and other channels to popularize the knowledge of the red revolution so that more people can understand and inherit the red spirit.

Cultivate patriotic feelings: As contemporary youth, we must strive to cultivate strong patriotic feelings, not indulge in fantasies, learn from our predecessors, have the pioneering spirit of daring to fight and struggle, and at the same time be down-to-earth, master new knowledge, dare to think and do, and never bow to setbacks.

Remember the red stories: Remember the heroic deeds of revolutionary predecessors and establish the lofty ambition of serving the country. Youths with ideals will have the right direction and strong motivation to strive. Contemporary college students must constantly improve themselves, stand at the forefront of the times, keep up with the development trend, learn skills and contribute their own strength to the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation.

To achieve the goal of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation, young people need to understand the history of the Party, inherit and carry forward the spirit of brave struggle and selfless dedication, and require young people to always maintain the awareness of serving the people without seeking rewards, and constantly sharpen their will.

(3) Use innovation as a blade to break the cocoon

Ambitious young people must grow up with responsibility, learn to establish firm beliefs, and strive to grow. The flame of the spirit is always upward, and the light of the ideal is always dazzling. With the country and the nation as the priority, young people will surely achieve a career and live up to their youth.

Through the social practice of party history education, team members have a deep understanding of the party's development history. In the party's journey, a group of knowledgeable people have emerged. Through continuous exploration and research, countless great achievements have been created. Establish a correct view of party history, learn party history in a scientific way, summarize and summarize from learning, and absorb knowledge. Adhere to the viewpoints of historical materialism and dialectical materialism, correctly understand party history, choose the good ones and follow them, and change the bad ones, increase their own wisdom and insights, and improve their own quality. Strengthen a clear understanding of oneself, dare to stand at the forefront of the times, keep pace with the times, innovate ideas, fully and carefully understand things, and enhance the ambition, backbone, and confidence of young people.

Combine theory with practice, turn beliefs into actions, and base on the national conditions of Chinese socialism. Learn party history, implement the knowledge and experience you have gained into practical actions, and be an ambitious young man who integrates knowledge and action, has achievements, and has responsibilities. Promote the education of party history, integrate the red history into our interests and lives, spread the party history culture in the form of "party history + cultural creation", promote the social atmosphere of learning party history, arouse the enthusiasm of learning party history, and inspire the self-confidence, self-esteem and national pride of the broad masses of people. Actively learn scientific knowledge, spread the scientific spirit, transform knowledge into strength, or contribute to the construction of the motherland in the field you are good at, or actively devote yourself to the cutting-edge fields most needed for the development of the motherland, or go deep into the grassroots to the places where the motherland needs it most, shoulder the responsibilities of the times, constantly explore, make unremitting efforts, and add strength to the Chinese dream with your sincere heart and solid knowledge and technology level.

Learn party history, learn from the past, strengthen your beliefs, and take action. In the new era and new journey, contemporary youth should strengthen their patriotism and ambition to serve the country, study hard, achieve a career, live up to their youth, and make unremitting efforts for the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation.
