Abstract: In the new era, the Party and the state have put forward the important theory of 'three-whole-parenting' for the fundamental task of establishing moral education in colleges and universities, which integrates college and university parenting projects, carriers and resources, and reconstructs the pattern, system and standard of parenting. As the most important participant and implementer of college students' ideological and political education, how to play their visible function and exemplary leadership in the "three-whole-parenting" is the premise and foundation for counselors to do a good job in ideological and political education. Under this perspective, counselors should accurately position their roles, deeply understand the significance and scientific connotation of 'three-pronged education', grasp the laws of ideological and political work and student growth, and be the vanguard force in the whole staff, the synergistic force in the all-round, and the key force in the whole process, which has important practical significance in promoting the all-round development of the students, and pushing the counselors' professionalism. It is of great practical significance to promote the overall development of students and the professionalisation of counselors.

1. 'Three Full Education' Perspective of the Realistic Significance of the Role Positioning of College Counselors

1.1. The Role of Counselors is the Realistic Requirements of the Ideological and Political Work of Colleges and Universities to Improve the Effectiveness of the Work.

The 'three full nurturing' is an important initiative for universities to carry out ideological and political work, build an integrated nurturing system, and create a 'big ideological and political pattern', which is a systematic nurturing project that must be participated by all staff, and requires all counselors to play their own nurturing roles and make their own roles clear. Role positioning. Counselors in the 'big ideological and political pattern', is 'independently undertake the whole process, a full range of important subjects of education, and in the whole person in the education of the important position of the lander, synergist and tracker' [1]. Therefore, counselors only a comprehensive and profound understanding of their own role in the 'three full education', find the positioning, in order to better play the role of education, in order to promote the 'three full education' work in colleges and universities to take root.

1.2. Counsellor Role Positioning is to Promote the Objective Needs of the Overall Development of Students

'Ideological and political work is fundamentally the work of people, we must focus on students, care for students, service students, and constantly improve the level of student thinking, political awareness, moral quality, cultural literacy, so that students become both moral and aptitude, all-round development of talents' [2]. This insightful exposition fully explains the essential requirements of ideological and political work and the attributes of nurturing. Therefore, as an important working theory of ideological and political work in colleges and universities, the core and ultimate goal is to educate people, which is not only a clear requirement of ideological and political work, but also a realistic response to the objective needs of the comprehensive development of college students. The comprehensive development of human beings is difficult to achieve only by themselves, need schools, teachers, families, society and other external forces to intervene and help. Counselors are the backbone of ideological and political education for college students, the organisers, implementers and guides of students' daily ideological and political education and management work, and important participants in solving all kinds of problems and conflicts among college students'[3]. The work content, professional characteristics and advantages of counselors play an important role in uniting the maximum synergy of all parties.

1.3. The Role of Counselors is to Promote the Professionalism of the Counsellor Team's Practical Demands.

From the 'three full education' system construction and objectives, fully embodies the 'teaching and learning' concept, counsellor education to lead students to grow, while in the process of educating their own continuous improvement and maturity, which is in line with the two-way win-win education laws and educational practices. This is in line with the law and practice of education. Clarifying the role positioning of counselors in the field of 'three-pronged education' can improve the ideological understanding of counselors, prompting counselors to firmly educate people's sense of mission and sense of responsibility, and constantly strengthen the ability to carry out ideological and political work and skills, so that the ideological understanding can be transformed into an endogenous impetus for the practice of educating people. In this process, counselors are bound to improve the sense of urgency and learning autonomy, constantly learning new theoretical and practical knowledge, and then improve the theoretical level, scientific research ability and professionalism, in order to adapt to the real needs of the new era on the counselors' work ability.

2. The Role of College Counselors under the Perspective of 'Three Full Education'

2.1. To Be the Vanguard of the Whole Staff

'The function of ideological and political education undertaken by counselors has been emphatically assigned from the very beginning of the birth of this position.' [4] In the college campus, from student enrollment to graduation, the counselor's accompaniment, management and guidance throughout the entire process, from learning to life, from inside to outside the school, the counselor's nurturing work needs to comprehensively grasp all aspects of students' life and learning. On the one hand, the college counsellor team is different from professional teachers or other political teams, they are the closest contact with students, the most frequent contact with students, the most understanding of the state of mind of students. As the link and bridge between schools and students, counselors are the direct implementers of students' ideological and political education and school management system, and they implement ideological leadership through class activities and various educational activities. On the other hand, whether it is in the process of student learning, or in the daily management of class affairs, to play the college counsellor team's nurturing function is the most important, which emphasises the political nature of the counsellor team in the first place. Colleges and universities want to solve the problem of 'who cultivate people, cultivate what kind of people', ideological and political leadership is always the first. The political and direct nature of the work of the counsellor team makes it clear that it is an irreplaceable vanguard of the whole team.

2.2. Do All-round in the Synergistic Force

The college counsellor team as a synergistic force in all-round stresses its synergy with the teachers of the ideological and political courses, professional course teachers and college management team and other teams. 'The nurturing work of colleges and universities, if they rely only on the superposition of the unilateral power of counselors and teachers of the ideology and politics course will be very difficult to achieve the effect of '1+1>2' of the nurturing effect, and want to enhance the effectiveness of the two teams of the ideology and politics of nurturing, it is necessary to establish and improve the mechanism of synergistic nurturing.' [5] 'Three full parenting' perspective, college counsellor team is no longer a specific group of single combatants, but to become an important role in the synergistic parenting irreplaceable. First of all, the counsellor team should strengthen the connection with the teacher team of the ideology and politics course, and learn and exchange with each other in the same direction. Teachers of civics course should talk about the problems of students found by counselors in the classroom, and at the same time, counselors should also master some theoretical knowledge of civics course, strengthen theoretical research, and use theoretical height to make the political leadership of counselors' team accurate and practical; at the same time, teachers of civics course must also strengthen the synergy with counselors, and master the most real ideological confusion of students, which is a key method to enhance the effectiveness of the course teaching. Once again, the counsellor team should keep communicating with the professional course teacher team to understand the students' learning situation in time, which is conducive to the accuracy and effectiveness of the counselor's work; the professional teachers can fully grasp the situation of the students' professional learning through the counselors, so that they can do according to the talents of the students; finally, the management team of the university needs to maintain synergy with the counsellor team of colleges and universities to unplug the pipeline of the connection between the two sides and assist the counsellor team in the function of educating the students and helping the students to learn. The counsellor team will instill the function of educating people in their daily work. The counsellor team is not only the main role of the collaborative education team, but also the main integrator of collaborative education resources.

2.3. Do the Whole Process of the Key Force

The college counsellor team is the key force in the construction of the large system of ideological work in colleges and universities, with the role of the team of the load-bearing wall. The college counsellor team is the main leader of class construction, the direct responsibility of the class management and the primary implementer of the ideological and political education, as well as the role of the bridge, the needle and the thread. The daily work of the counsellor team always focuses on students, pays attention to students, serves students, and coordinates the use of many educational resources through its own team in the whole process of students' study and life in colleges and universities. Under the perspective of 'three-round education', college counsellor team has become the key to the implementation of the work of educating people. Unlike other teaching and support teams, counselors, as the students' side person, have a very important role to play in the students' school life. Unlike other teaching and support teams, counselors, as the people around the students, have to implement the work of educating people in the whole process of students' life in school, as General Secretary Xi Jinping said, "To do a good job of ideological and political education in colleges and universities, we need to change according to the events, advance according to the times, and make new efforts according to the situation."
