In this, my first issue as Editor-in-Chief of Learning Disabilities: A Multidisciplinary Journal, I want to express my admiration for Dr. Esther Minskoff, the founding editor of the Journal. Dr. Minskoff's work has resulted in a top-notch publication in which LDA can take pride, and which is an important vehicle for disseminating information about individuals with learning disabilities. I will endeavor to maintain the high standards established by Esther Minskoff.

Thanks, too, to the reviewers who have assisted in shaping the Journal. Without their expert participation, the work of the editor would be much more difficult.

I look forward to submissions of articles for publication in the Journal and to your suggestions for topical issues in the future. Please feel free to write to me with suggestions or comments.
