Acknowledgments

This proceedings contains papers presented at the fourth conference on Semantics and Linguistic Theory, May 6-8, 1994, at the University of Rochester. 19 papers were presented at the conference; 14 of those are in this volume. Also included are the alternate papers for the conference. Thanks to the authors of the papers which appear here for their cooperation in submitting camera-ready copy. Unfortunately, the papers presented by the following authors were not available for publication in this volume: Robin Cooper, Veneeta Dayal, Kai von Fintel, Jo-want Lin and Craige Roberts.

The conference was organized by Chris Barker, Greg Carlson, Claudia Ho, Graham Katz, Peter Laserson and Beverly Spejewski. Many thanks to them, and to the University of Rochester Linguistics Department, the Center for the Sciences of Language, the Cognitive Science Program, and the College of Arts and Science for making the conference possible. Thanks also to Roberta Colon for administrative work, to our abstract reviewers, and to everyone who helped with registration, cleaning up, and various other chores.

Finally, thanks to the Department of Modern Languages and Linguistics at Cornell University and especially to Michael Bernstein for making this publication possible.
