Founded in 2019, Veritas: Villanova Research Journal (VVRJ) is the first peer-reviewed undergraduate research journal at Villanova University. VVRJ promotes investigation and discovery, the peer review process, and the work of Villanova students and their faculty mentors by publishing scholarly work across all fields of study. VVRJ publishes student research that meets its standards, is authored by Villanova undergraduates or recent graduates, and promotes the pursuit of truth.

VVRJ is published annually, in print and online. Villanova undergraduates who have engaged in research are encouraged to submit. Alumni are also eligible to submit within three years of their graduation from Villanova. For more information, contact veritasjournal@villanova.edu.

VVRJ is sponsored by the Villanova Center for Research and Fellowships and Falvey Library.
