

The title "Distinguished Moose Biologist" was bestowed on both founding fathers of the North American Moose Conference and Workshop. The first recipients of this award, Pat Karns from Minnesota and Al Elsey from Ontario, were honoured in recognition for outstanding contributions to the field of moose management.

This title will be presented annually to individuals who have made significant contributions to the field of moose management.

Dave Euler (Ontario) right presenting Pat Karns (Minnesota) left with the Distinguished Moose Biologist Award; April 23, 1981.

Al Elsey (Ontario) co-founder of the North American Moose Conference and Workshop also received the Distinguished Moose Biologist Award; April 23, 1981.
