

NEWS NOTES

• The LIBRARY OF CONGRESS has completed a study of existing governmental library resources and services, jointly funded and sponsored by the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science (NCLIS). More than 400 Federal libraries of all types were studied through personal interviews and mail questionnaires. They included health, technical and other special libraries as well as academic, school, and general libraries in the Midwest, Southwest, and Pacific Coast regions. The overall recommendation of the study, entitled Toward a Federal Library and Information Services Network: A Proposal, addresses the need for a full-service, multitype Federal library network based on existing resources and services. The plan of action proposed indicates goals and implementation suggestions that the Federal library community can use as a guide. Responsibility for further action, the study states, depends on the Federal Library Committee. Copies of the 130-page report are available for $6 each from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402 (Stock No. 030-000-00138-9).

• The PEABODY INSTITUTE Library, Baltimore, became part of the Johns Hopkins University on July 1. It will be administered by Johns Hopkins' Milton S. Eisenhower Library as part of its Special Collections Department, but will retain its separate identity and stay in its present downtown Baltimore location. The Peabody's collection of 250,000 volumes is outstanding in early science, with additional strength in the Greek and Latin classics, Romance languages, English and American literature, and genealogy. ■■
