PROFILES

SUSAN J. COTÉ has been named director of university libraries at Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, effective January 1, 1984. Coté, who is now associate director of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Libraries, was chosen after a national search following the death in February 1982 of the previous director, James V. Jones.

Coté has a bachelor's from Regis College, an MLS from Simmons College, and a J.D. from Suffolk University Law School. She has previously held positions as head of the Collection Development Department at Boston University's Mugar Memorial Library and assistant university librarian for technical services at Boston College Libraries.

At Case Coté will be responsible for library automation and the development of a technical services management system.

EDWARD J. JENNERICH, chair of the Department of Library, Information and Media Sciences at Baylor University, has been named dean of the School of Library Science and Instructional Technology at Southern Connecticut State University, New Haven, effective July 1.

Jennerich had been at Baylor since 1974 serving as chair of the Department of Library Science until 1982. Prior to that he served as administrative intern for the associate provost of the University of Pittsburgh (1973), librarian at Westinghouse Junior-Senior High School, Pittsburgh (1970-1974), and evening librarian at Fairleigh Dickinson University, Rutherford, New Jersey (1967-1970).

Active in ACRL, Jennerich served as a member of the 1984 Nominating Committee for the College Library Section. He was also a member of the Office of Library Personnel Resources Advisory Committee (1980-1982) and the Library Education Committee of the American Association of School Librarians (1979-1983). Jennerich is also a member of the Executive Board of the American Association of University Administrators, and serves as chair of the International Liaison Committee and as their representative to the Fulbright Fellows Administrator Exchange Program.

Jennerich has written articles for many professional journals, including Indiana Libraries and Library Education. He earned his bachelor's degree in 1967 from Trenton State College, an MLS from Drexel University in 1970 and a Ph.D. in higher education administration and library science from the University of Pittsburgh in 1974.

RUTH J. PATRICK, a specialist in automated library operations, became dean of library services at the University of Montana on August 1. She succeeds Earle C. Thompson, who held the position for 18 years.

Patrick has been assistant director of library operations at Wayne State University, Detroit, since 1978. From 1976 to 1978 she was a senior project analyst in the Education System Division of Applied Management Sciences, Silver Spring, Maryland, where she co-directed a study of library cooperatives, networks, and demonstration projects for the U.S. Department of Education. She was coordinator of continuing education at the School of Information Studies, Syracuse University, from 1974 to 1976.

Patrick served on the editorial board of the Journal of Library Automation in 1975-1977. She is active in professional societies and has been a consultant on library planning for the University of California. Currently she is chair of the National Council on Quality Continuing Library Education, a member of ALA's Standing Committee on Library Education, and the recipient of a Council on Library Resources grant to study the impact of microcomputers in academic research libraries.

Patrick holds an MLS (1967) and a Ph.D. in library science (1972) from the University of California, Berkeley.

KATHARINE MARTINEZ, head of access and support services at Columbia University's Avery Architectural and Fine Arts Library, has been named chief librarian of the Cooper-Hewitt Museum Library, New York, a branch of the Smithsonian Institution, effective August 1.

Martinez, who holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Delaware (1971) and a master's from Indiana University (1974), is a Ph.D. candidate at George Washington University. Her recent scholarly works include a number of presentations on the Philadelphia engraver, John Sartain.

She was associated with the library of the Smithsonian's National Museum of American Art and National Portrait Gallery from 1974 to 1981, first as assistant librarian in charge of public services. In 1980 she was appointed librarian.

Martinez was president of the Art Libraries Society of North America from 1978-1979 and an executive board member. She has served as a consultant for Moore College, G.K. Hall, and the Museum of Temporary Art in Washington.

WILLIAM C. PRIGGE, professor of library and communications media at Chicago State University, has been appointed dean of library and learning resources at that institution. An eight-year veteran at Chicago State, Prigge served for over a year as acting dean of library and learning resources.

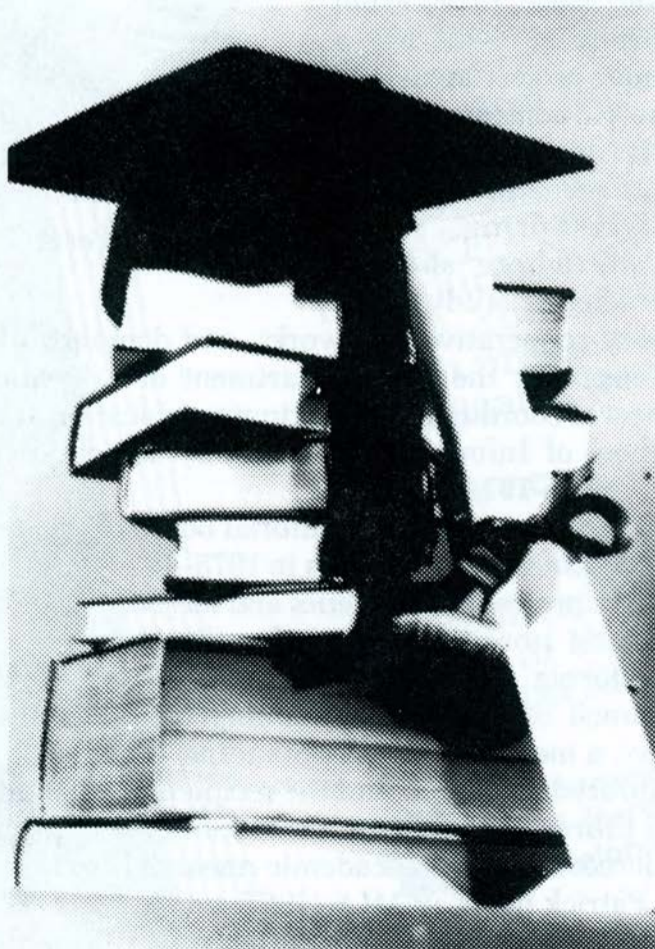

Prigge obtained his doctorate in audiovisual communications and general education from Indiana University, his MLS from the University of Wisconsin, and an undergraduate degree from Lakeland College. He previously served as president of the Illinois and Indiana Association for Educational Communications and Technology. He is a former member of the Board of Directors of the national Association for Educational Communications and Technology.

WILLIAM JOHNSTON TUBBS has been named librarian of Washington College, Chestertown, Maryland, succeeding Betty Wasson who retired in June. Tubbs holds a bachelor's degree in mathematics from Davis and Elkin College in West Virginia, an MLS from Columbia, and a master of divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary.

Since 1966 Tubbs has been at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, serving there as head cataloging librarian, head of technical services, and assistant librarian.

YOU AND YOUR STAFF now can stay continuously in touch with current Federal technical information through Government Reports Announcements and Index (GRA&I).

Each journal contains about 2,500 bibliographic citations, biweekly, of recently completed research compiled and published by the National Technical Information Service (NTIS). A subscription to GRA&I means an automatic technological update every two weeks.

And every GRA&I journal includes these five indexes to provide easy access to and selection of just the reports you need:

- Keyword
- Personal Author
- Corporate Author
- Contract/Grant Numbers
- Accession/Report Numbers

In the course of a year's subscription you can turn to some 70,000 technical reports of research carried on in the labs of Federal agencies, universities, and industry. And GRA&I can be a helpful guide to the NTIS Bibliographic Data Base online.

Discover the single-source guide to a wealth of new technology including:

Aeronautics • Agriculture • Astronomy & Astrophysics • Atmospheric Sciences • Behavioral & Social Sciences • Biological & Medical Sciences • Chemistry • Earth Sciences & Oceanography • Electronics & Electrical Engineering • Energy Conversion • Non-Propulsive • Materials • Mathematical Sciences • Mechanical, Industrial, Civil & Marine Engineering • Methods & Equipment • Military Sciences • Missile Technology • Navigation, Communications, Detection & Countermeasures • Ordnance • Physics • Propulsion & Fuels • Space Technology.
