Eberhart now LAN administrator

George Eberhart, editor of C&RL News, has taken on temporary additional duties with ALA Publishing as network administrator for the new electronic publishing system installed last month. Eberhart is responsible for establishing and maintaining the network's users, directories, and security; maintaining backups of files; and monitoring network performance.

The new publishing system (called Wave4, developed by Bestinfo, Inc.) completely automates the production of books and journals up to the point where the camera-ready pages are sent to a printer. The system runs on a Novell network similar to the one now used by Booklist. Eberhart has been working closely with ALA Books and the Central Production Unit to ensure the smooth operation of all publishing activities on the network.

Although Eberhart still edits C&RL News at least 50% of the time, some of his editorial duties have been taken over by Pam Spiegel, a freelance editorial assistant with considerable publishing experience.

Take the Mystery out of Scientific Book Contents!

It used to be that you didn't have a clue to the chapter contents of scientific books. Especially multi-authored books. And trying to turn up the evidence was time consuming and often futile. Now the Index to Scientific Book Contents[™] solves the mystery!

ISBC[™] cuts down on your detective work by including more than 35,000 chapters from nearly 2,000 scientific books and series in a single source. With only a few facts to go on—author/editor name, book subject, chapter subject, general book category, or author affiliation—any one of ISBC's five sections will put you on the trail. You can also browse through these sections, and ISBC will clue you in to chapters of interest. To break the case, simply turn to ISBC's complete listing of book contents and find the bibliographic information you need.

ISBC solves the mystery of scientific book contents. For further details—and a free sample issue—fill out the coupon below and mail it today! Or call toll free 800-523-1850, extension 1405.

Please send me information and a FREE sample issue of the Index to Scientific Book Contents[™]. I understand there is no cost or obligation.

Retirements

FRANK BREY, associate librarian at Indiana University, Bloomington, retired in July.

NORMA CLAUSSEN, science librarian, mathematics, mechanical engineering at the University of California, Santa Barbara, retired September 30. She will continue to work part-time as science librarian in the Sciences-Engineering Library.

ELEANOR E. COVALESKY, former cataloger at the School of Law, University of San Francisco, California, retired on June 30.

CHRISTOPHER HAIL, head of public services at the Frances Loeb Library, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts, retired on June 30 after 20 years of service. He began his career at Harvard in 1967 as a library assistant in the Map Collection. In 1971 he transferred to a position as a cataloger and was later promoted to the post from which he retired. He was an active member, officer, and speaker in numerous professional organizations, including the Massachusetts Committee for the Preservation of Architectural Records (President, 1987-1988), the Council of Planning Librarians, the Association of Architectural Librarians, the Association of Architectural School Librarians, and the Art Libraries Society of North America.

NINA MCMASTER, librarian at Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts, retired in June after serving 35 years. She began her career at Harvard in October 1954 in the Office of the Corporation, in 1956 she transferred to the Physics Department as a secretary, and several years later she began to work in the Physics Department Library on a part-time basis. In 1959, she was named departmental librarian before her appointment as librarian.

VIRGINIA PRATT, head of the Library School Library at the University of California, Berkeley, retired in April.

HELEN L. SNOKE, since July 1988 acting associate dean of the School of Information and Library Studies, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, will retire at the end of the year. Snoke has been a member of the faculty since 1969. She has specialized in the teaching of the school library media curriculum and was director of an experimental project in school library media education funded by the Knapp Foundation and administered by the American Library Association. She holds a BA in drama and English, an MLS, and a Ph.D in education and library science, all from the University of Oklahoma. She has been active in many professional organizations, including serving as president of the American Association of School Librarians in 1974-75, and chair of two major committees of the American Library Association, the Publishing Committee in 1981-82, and the Standards Committee, 1986-present. Currently she is a member of ALA Council and the Board of Directors of the American Association of School Librarians. She has also served on various committees within the University.

ELIZABETH TODD, head of the Catalog Department in the Bancroft Library at the University of California, Berkeley, retired in July.

Deaths

RAIMUND E. MATTHIS, technical services librarian in Collins Library at the University of Puget Sound, Tacoma, Washington, since 1963 died on September 15. He was an instrumental figure in converting the library collection from the Dewey Classification to Library of Congress by 1970. In 1971 he was the co-author of Adopting the Library of Congress Classification System (Bowker). He was responsible for redesigning the card catalog, and was involved in the library retrospective conversion project with OCLC, and the planning and preparation for a public access catalog as the basis for complete library automation.

WILLIAM P. TIMLAKE, former president of the Research Libraries Group, Chicago, Illinois, died on September 21. Timlake became RLG's president in February 1987. During his brief tenure he set in motion a series of initiatives central to the future development of the organization. Timlake had previously spent 22 years with the IBM Corporation. ■ ■

Attention, authors

College & Research Libraries News can now accept manuscripts submitted on diskette or via ALANET. The C&RL News ALANET number is ALA0306. If you can upload it, I can download it, because ALANET translates text into pure ASCII files.

If you don't have ALANET or you prefer to send a diskette, make sure it is a 5 1/4-inch floppy for IBM or compatible machines; either 360K or 1.2M will do. We use Xywrite III for word processing, but we can attempt other software programs. The best thing to do is convert your text into an ASCII file before sending it, if possible.

Always send a paper copy of your manuscript along with the diskette, just in case it is unreadable. Let us know if you need your floppy returned to you.

If you cannot send a manuscript electronically somehow, submit three paper copies in a standard typeface such as Courier or Pica. Avoid proportional or oversize typefaces.

Send all materials to George M. Eberhart, Editor, C&RL News, ACRL/ALA, 50 East Huron St., Chicago, IL 60611. —GME.
