Retirements

Anita Cook has retired as coordinator of OhioLINK catalogs after 22 years. She began her librarianship career as circulation supervisor at the University of Denver's Penrose Library, followed by 11 years as systems coordinator at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. She joined OhioLINK on March 2, 1992, as one of the organization's first employees. Over the course of her tenure, Cook has been instrumental to OhioLINK's growth. She worked with the founding executive director Tom Sanville to develop and hire the first catalog and reference specialist positions, as well as coordinated the development of the statewide electronic catalog system. ♪
