

International Conference on Education and Educational Psychology

19-20 October 2011

Istanbul, Turkey

The International Conference on Education and Educational Psychology (ICEEPSY) 2011 will be held in Istanbul, Turkey 19 - 22 October 2011. Plans have already begun to insure the ICEEPSY 2011 conference continues to build on the successes from previous ICEEPSY conferences and research efforts and seeks to expand even further the international focus on excellence in education and educational psychology efforts with participants from all major international academic and professional settings.

The conference aims to provide opportunity for academicians, practitioners, student researchers, and professionals from education and educational psychology with cross-disciplinary interests and from varied educational/professional fields to share and learn from each other. The format of the conference is designed to provide unique opportunities to bring together cross-disciplinary research interests, effective educational and therapeutic practices and noted interventions within a setting designed to enrich dialogue and review of exceptional pedagogy, research, and practice. The ICEEPSY 2011 also aims to promote and recognize international experts and effective practices in education and educational psychology from varied disciplines.

During ICEEPSY 2010 colleagues and professionals from more than 30 different countries participated in last year's conference. All abstracts from the conference were published by ICEEPSY (ISSN Number 1986-3020) and a full text of papers was provided by Elsevier in the ICEEPSY 2010 Proceedings. The ICEEPSY 2011 Scientific Committee and Board of Reviewers have already made plans to expand the conference offerings for 2011 and will provide added features including preconference training sessions, workshops, Poster Presentations, and Special Interest Group (SIG) symposiums. The ICEEPSY is aimed to include researchers, academicians, teachers, trainers, parents, and leaders from non-governmental organizations throughout the world. Special consideration will also be given to student researchers and doctoral candidates to encourage their participation.
