

List of Referees

Acknowledgement to Referees

Below are the names of colleagues upon whose judgment we have relied as referees for the past few years. All readily agreed to volunteer their time, including many we have called on more than once. Refereeing tends not to receive the acknowledgement it deserves in the academic community. Our referees not only carefully scrutinize the papers they receive, but also fill out a two-page evaluation form and typically write extensive comments. In many cases they also review revised versions of papers.

The authors, this journal, and the academic community in general all benefit from their expert and considered judgments. We are thus grateful to our referees, and we take this opportunity to thank them publicly.

Any omissions or errors in this list should be immediately brought to the attention of the Editors.
