

CONTRIBUTORS

HAIJUAN YANG is a PhD candidate in the Department of Economics and Management at Ningxia University, China. She is also a lecturer at Xinhua College, Ningxia University, China. Her research focuses on firm internationalization in the sector of halal food and products, and importation promotion policies in China (Ningxia), Malaysia, Brunei, the Philippines, and Thailand. Email: 364664141@qq.com.

FRANÇOIS DUBÉ is a PhD candidate at the Department of Economics and Management at Ningxia University, China. His research focuses on firm internationalization in the sector of halal food and products, and importation promotion policies in China (Ningxia), Malaysia, Brunei, the Philippines, and Thailand. Email: francois.dube.3@ulaval.ca.

LIJUN HUANG is a professor in the Department of Economics and Management at Ningxia University, China. He is also the director of the Center for Research on the Development of Western China at Ningxia University. His research focuses on the development potential and the internationalization of firms in the sector of halal food and products in China (Ningxia). Email: hlj1963@163.com.

JUAN CARLOS VELASCO has a PhD in philosophy from the Universidad Autónoma de Madrid. He is a scientific researcher at the Instituto de Filosofía del Consejo Superior de Investigaciones Científicas (Madrid). He has been a principal researcher for the following projects of the Spanish government's National R&D Plan: "Políticas migratorias, justicia y ciudadanía" ["Migratory, Justice and Citizen Policies”] (2007-2009); “Integración, participación y justicia. Ejes normativos de las políticas migratorias” [“Integration, Participation, and Justice: Normative Axes of Migration Policies”] (2010-2013); and “Derechos humanos y justicia global en el contexto de las migraciones internacionales” [“Human Rights and Global Justice in the Context of International Migration”] (2014-2017). Scientist in Charge of the “Right to Migration” group of the European Research Training Network “Applied Global Justice” of the European Commission. Author of, among other monographs, La teoría discursiva del derecho (CEPC, Madrid, 2000); Habermas: El uso público de la razón (Alianza, Madrid, 2013), and El azar de las fronteras: Políticas migratorias, ciudadanía y justicia (FCE, Mexico City, 2016). Coeditor of the volume Global Challenges to Liberal Democracy: Political Participation, Minorities and Migrations (Springer, Dordrecht, 2013). Editor of various monograph issues about migration policy in the journals Arbor, Isegoría, and Revista Internacional de Filosofía Política. Since 2005, he has edited the blog Migraciones: Reflexiones cívicas, in <<http://www.madrimasd.org/blogs/migraciones/>>. Email: jc.velasco@csic.es.

CAYETANO FERNÁNDEZ has a PhD in history and a bachelor’s in history and geography from the Universidad de Navarra. He is a professor of the history of Spain in the journalism program and academic coordinator of the Instituto Humanismo y Sociedad at the Universidad San Jorge (Zaragoza, Spain). Among his latest publications are: “Familias inmigrantes en España: estructura sociodemográfica, roles de género y pautas culturales de los hijos adolescentes” in Papeles de Población (2015), and “Framing y mundo árabe: la cobertura de la prensa española en torno a la revolución tunecina” in Estudios sobre el mensaje periodístico (2015). Email: cfernandez@usj.es.

ALFONSO CORRAL is studying for a PhD in communications, he has a master’s in marketing and corporate communications and a bachelor's in journalism from the Universidad San Jorge (USJ). He is a professor of civic humanism in the journalism program at USJ. His most recent publication is "Framing y mundo árabe: la cobertura de la prensa española en torno a la revolución tunecina" in Estudios sobre el mensaje periodístico (2015). Email: acorral@usj.es.

ERNESTO DOMÍNGUEZ LÓPEZ has a PhD in historical sciences (2011), a master's in modern history (2008), and a bachelor's in history (2006) from the Universidad de La Habana. He is an assistant professor and researcher at the Centro de Estudios Hemisféricos y Sobre Estados Unidos (CEHSEU) [Center of Hemispheric and U.S. Studies] of the Universidad de La Habana, where he directs the United States study group. Among his most recent publications are "El diálogo Estados Unidos-Cuba en el sistema internacional," in Estudios Estratégicos (CIPI, 2015); "Georgia en el sistema político estadounidense contemporáneo: evolución en el Sur tradicional," in Norteamérica (UNAM, 2014); and "Los latinos y las elecciones en Estados Unidos," in Revista Universidad de La Habana, (Universidad de La Habana, 2014, with Carlos A. de la Puente Abreu and Seida Barrera Rodríguez). Email: ernestodl@cehseu.uh.cu.

LANDY MACHADO CAJIDE has a master's in modern history and international relations (2012) and a bachelor's in history (2008) from the Universidad de La Habana. Among his most recent publications are: "Emigración cubana a Estados Unidos en un ambiente de restablecimiento de relaciones diplomáticas" (Migraciones Internacionales, 2015), with María Eugenia Anguiano Téllez; "Aproximación a los movimientos migratorios en el espacio postsoviético," in the book De la ex URSS hacia todos los lugares: Distintas dimensiones del proceso migratorio: Países de origen y de destino, Susana Masseroni and Cristina Pizzonia, eds., MC Editores, 2014; and "La participación política de los migrantes," in Temas (La Habana, 2014). Email: cajide211@hotmail.com.

DALIA GONZÁLEZ DELGADO has a master's in modern history (2015) and a bachelor's in journalism (2011) from the Universidad de La Habana. She recently began work as a researcher at the Centro de Estudios Hemisféricos y Sobre Estados Unidos (CEHSEU) of the Universidad de La Habana. Email: dgonzalezd@cehseu.uh.cu.

CELESTE DE MARCO is studying for a PhD in social and human sciences at the Universidad Nacional de Quilmes (UNQ) and has a bachelor's in social sciences from the same university; she has a doctoral scholarship from the Consejo Nacional de Investigaciones Científicas y Técnicas. She carries out her work at the Centro de Estudios de la Argentina Rural (CEAR/UNQ) and is a member of the Red de Estudios de Historia de las Infancias en América Latina (REHIAL). Her most recent publication is "Relatos de niñez rural: Memorias y usos metafóricos (Florencio Varela, 1952-1960)" (UNCo, 2015). Email: celestedemarco88@gmail.com.

MARITZA CAICEDO has a PhD in social sciences with a specialty in population studies from El Colegio de México, a master's in demography from El Colegio de la Frontera Norte, and a sociology degree from the Universidad del Valle-Colombia. She is a senior researcher at the Instituto de Investigaciones Sociales of the Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México. Among her principal areas of research are: international migration, labor markets and gender, and work and mental health. She has various publications dealing with these issues. Email: crmcaicedo@gmail.com.

EDWIN VAN GAMEREN has a PhD in economics from VU University in Amsterdam and a master's degree in econometrics from Erasmus University in Rotterdam. He is a professor-researcher at the Center for Economic Studies at El Colegio de Mexico, and coordinator of the PhD in economics program there. He has published articles about labor and health economics in Review of Household Economics, Health Policy, Journal of Family and Economic Issues, Review of Income and Wealth, and Latin American Journal of Economics, among others. Email: egameren@colmex.mx.

GERMÁN VEGA BRIONES has a PhD in sociology from the University of Texas at Austin, and specializes in international migration, family, and gender issues. His most recent publication is “Jóvenes migrantes en el Foster Care System (Sistema de Cuidados en Adopción): el caso de la academia” in Norteamérica, 2015. Email: gvegabriones@yahoo.com.

YOLANDA GONZÁLEZ-RÁBAGO has an international doctorate in sociology from the Universidad del País Vasco (UPV/EHU), a master’s in Migrations: Knowledge and Management of Migratory Processes, and a bachelor’s in sociology. She is a researcher and teacher in the Sociology 2 Department of the Universidad del País Vasco. Among her more recent publications are “Modes of engagement of immigrants with their home societies: types and measurements of engagement,” in Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies (2016), and “Engagement policies in favour of transnationalism: the expansion of transnational citizenship within Colombian emigrants,” in Revista Interdisciplinar da Mobilidade Humana (2015). Email: yolanda.gonzalezr@ehu.eus.

ANA PAULA PENCHASZADEH has a PhD in social sciences from the Universidad de Buenos Aires (UBA) and a doctorate in philosophy from Université Paris 8, a master’s in sociology and political science from FLACSO, and a bachelor’s in political science from UBA. She is a researcher at Conicet based in the Instituto de Investigaciones Gino Germani and a professor at the Universidad de Buenos Aires both at the graduate and undergraduate level. Her most recent publication is “El (im)posible ciudadano extranjero: Ciudadanía y nacionalidad en Argentina,” in Revista SAAP (2015). Email: anapenchas@gmail.com.

DENİZ SERT is an associate professor of international relations at Özyeğin University, Istanbul, Turkey. She received her B.A. from the Department of International Relations, Koç University, Istanbul, in 2000, a master’s in European Studies from the London School of Economics in 2001, and a PhD in political science from the City University of New York in 2008. After completing her PhD, Sert joined the Koç University Migration Research Center, MiReKoc, where she conducted research on various projects on international migration. She worked as a lecturer at various universities, including Brooklyn College in New York, and Boğaziçi, Okan, and Koç universities in Istanbul. She currently works as an expert on various commissioned research projects on migration in Turkey. Her areas of expertise are conflict, forced migration, international migration, irregular migration, transnationalism, border management, and civil society. Email: deniz.sert@ozyegin.edu.tr.

GUILLERMO ALONSO MENESES is a cultural anthropologist and a professor-researcher at El Colegio de la Frontera Norte, Tijuana, since 1999. He received his doctorate from the Department of Social Anthropology of the Universidad de Barcelona (1995) in the area of History of America and Africa. He was a research fellow in the Centre d’Estudis Africans i Interculturals (CEA) of Barcelona (1991-1997) and a visiting professor at the Population Studies Center of the Universidad Autónoma del Estado de Hidalgo, UAEH (1997-1999). His work focuses on the anthropology of the modern world, sociocultural transformations linked to migration, and clandestine crossings of international borders. He is the author of the books El desierto de los sueños rotos (2013) and En busca de la poesía del fútbol (2014). He was a member of the editorial board (1993-2001) of the journal Studia Africana (Spain), of the Revista de Antro- pología Experimental (2003-2013) (Spain), and is a member of the editorial board of the journal Migraciones Internacionales (Mexico). Email: gui@colef.mx.

JORGE A. SCHIAVON is studying for a PhD in political science and international relations at the University of California, San Diego, has a master's in political science from the same university, and a bachelor's in international relations from El Colegio de México. He is a senior professor-researcher of the International Studies Division at the Center for Research and Teaching in Economics (CIDE), coordinator of the Interdisciplinary Program in Migratory Studies (CIDE-MIG), and executive director and researcher with Proyecto México, las Américas y el Mundo. He was president (2011-2013) of the Asociación Mexicana de Estudios Internacionales (AMEI), director of CIDE's International Studies Division (2007-2010), and CIDE secretary general (2004-2007). Among his most recent publications are the books: Perspectivas migratorias III: Los derechos políticos de los mexicanos en el exterior (coedited with Jorge Durand), Mexico City, CIDE, 2014; North America's Soft Security Threats and Multilateral Governance: A Post-Westphalian Pathway (coedited with Imtiaz Hussain), New York, Palgrave-Macmillan, 2013; La política exterior de México 2012-2018: Diagnóstico y Propuestas (coedited with Rafael Velázquez), Mexico City, AMEI, 2012; Las relaciones México-Estados Unidos: Prioridades constantes, modelos teóricos variables, Mexico City, BUAP, 2011. Email: jorge.schiavon@cide.edu.

DAVID MUÑOZ-RODRÍGUEZ has a master's in the sociology and anthropology of public policies and a bachelor's in sociology from the Universidad de Valencia (España). He is a contracted researcher with the Department of Sociology and Social Anthropology at the Universidad de Valencia while finishing his doctoral thesis on the recent bout of migration of young Spanish university students. His most recent publication is "Las nuevas precariedades a través de las au pairs universitarias: Del cosmopolitismo a los trabajos de cuidados a bajo coste,” in Prisma Social (2015). Email: francisco.d.munoz@uv.es.

MARÍA EUGENIA ANGUIANO TÉLLEZ has a PhD in Social Sciences with a specialization in Sociology from El Colegio de México. She is a head professor-researcher in El Colegio de la Frontera Norte, where she is the Academic Coordinator of the Migration Studies Doctorate. Some of her most recent publications are the books: Migraciones internacionales, crisis y vulnerabilidades. Perspectivas comparadas (El Colef, 2014) coordinated with Rodolfo Cruz Piñero; Cruces de fronteras. Movilidad humana y políticas migratorias (El Colef/Cesmeca, 2015); and Migrantes en tránsito a Estados Unidos. Vulnerabilidades, Riesgos y Resiliencia (El Colef-Cesmeca, 2016), both coordinated with Daniel Villafuerte Solís. Email: anguiano@colef.mx.