

Catholic Kids

A BOOK OF CARTOONS

Catholic Kids

Copyrighted 1958

By

Cliff Wirth

and

Published by

The Michael Book Co.

Chicago, Ill.

"Hey, Ma, I think you shrunk my scapulars!"

"Looks like one of the wise men got wise with somebody!"

“Did you ever hear the Apostles’ Creed said without teeth?”

"It's a wonder some soap company doesn't buy my mother's slogan about Cleanliness being next to Godliness"

"C'mon, the angel will take care of you!"

"I said a prayer to St. Jude, patron of lost causes, for you, Timothy."

"I forgot to bless myself!"

"If you turn off the light, my guardian angel might trip over something in here!"

"You certainly can tell when they're going to church!"

"We're going to have to pick out a lot of saints' names!"

"Be careful, someone filled the holy water up to the top!"

"He doesn't want to go to Notre Dame!"

"Meet Gwendolyn. She knows the last half of the Apostles Creed."

"That's not a scapular. That's his dog license."

CLOTHING DRIVE for the MISSIONS

*"It's a birthday card for my guardian angel.
He and I are 4 years old today."*

"Now all you need is a St. Christopher's medal."

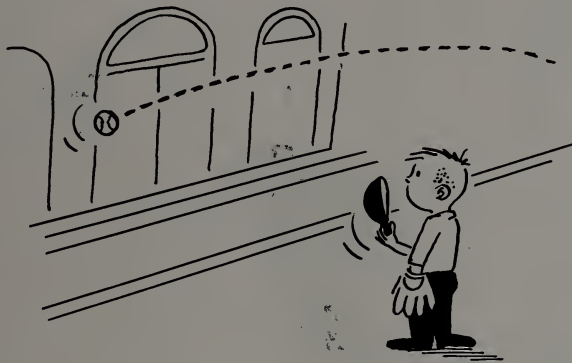

"How would you like to hear the Hail Mary in hi-fi?"

"Whatever his name is, he sure knows that Friday is fish day at our house."

"What's wrong? I saw Bishop Sheen writing it and Mama likes his program!"

"God bless the sky, and the grass, and the trees, and the garage, and the fence, and the flowers, and the ..."

"Ma, Timmy's done another sacrilege."

"Johnny, lend me your miraculous medal for a minute, will you?"

"He blesses himself backwards!"

"My medal feels like an ice cube."

"He can't get his hat off to go to church!"

*"Just because my brother is a priest,
why do I always have to be the Chaplain?"*

"It's a block rosary, that's what!"

"It's a Novena."

"Where's your St. Christopher medal?"

*"His mother sure will like that.
He looks just like St. Anthony."*

"I'll bet she's been praying to St. Anne a lot!"

*"He's being punished.
I caught him eating some meat on Friday."*

"No, no, you don't sing happy birthday in church."

"God bless everybody except Tommy Murphy!"

"The baby didn't wait for grace to be said, Mama!"

"They sang Tantum Ergo . . . not Tonto here we go!"

"Boy, the angels even kissed him on his back!"

"Let's give St. Joseph a ride."

"You're standing on my dress, Buddy!"

“Certainly, dear, we must always temper justice with mercy.”

"That one ought to be condemned!"

"My mother always tells me to turn the other cheek."

"O.K. I'll play hide'n seek, but no fair asking St. Anthony to help find me!"

"I think it's a shame that boys can't wear their hats in church."

"My birthday is a holy day of obligation."

"Well, MY guardian angel has purple wings."

"His favorite prayer is grace before meals."

"No, they're not Glory Bees!"

"Don't stand on the kneelers."

"Honest Grace, sometimes I wonder how Our Lord could love little children like He did!"

"Imagine, being upstaged by a shepherd."

"The line forms at the rear, buddy!"

*"If a cathedral is a church and a shrine is a grotto
... then what is a chapel?"*

*"He knows four states . . .
Alabama, Michigan, Illinois and Grace!"*

*“What do you mean you’re casting bread upon the water?
That was my peanut butter sandwich!”*

"The first sorrowful mystery."

"What's the fourth joyful mystery?"

"How do you bless yourself?"

*"Professor, I decided to give up the violin for Lent.
I'll be seeing you."*

"Do you think Father O'Brien would visit her if I asked him?"

"How much for a missile?"

*"The Devil in me keeps saying—
'Take it apart ... take it apart!'"*

"He saw a picture of the Sistine Chapel in the paper today!"

